Impeachment debate to be televised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and its Judiciary Committee have voted to allow broadcasters to switch on equipment that has been gathering dust since the opening minutes of the impeachment inquiry ten weeks ago.

Television and radio broadcasting is scheduled to start Wednesday, the exact time depending on when committee members conclude discussions of the procedures for deciding whether to impeach President Nixon.

A committee spokesman speculated Monday that the actual programming may not start until evening, but cautioned that this was just a guess based on the amount of work remaining.

The ABC, CBS and NBC television networks said they will televise the hearings live in a rotation plan similar to the one they adopted in early June a year ago during the Senate Watergate hearings.

The House and committee stipulated that the broadcasts must not be interrupted by commercials.

Judiciary members voted to allow television lights, which will make possible color telecasts.

Broadcast technicians installed cables and cameras in the committee's Rayburn Office Building hearing room for the beginning of evidentiary hearings on May 9.

Installation was supervised by the American Broadcasting Company, which put the cost at $45,000.

A three-story scaffold, dubbed "the tree house," was erected to hold the cameras shooting through a window behind the committee and toward the audience.

But after several brief statements at the first hearing, the committee excluded the broadcasters.

Several brief sessions have been open to the public, but cameras were barred.

There will be four television cameras in the committee room, two scanning committee members, and two shooting over their shoulders toward the audience.

According to the committee schedule, the first 10 hours of programming will consist of 15-minute statements by each of the 38 committee members.

The next 20 hours will be spent on amending and voting the proposed impeachment articles. As it is now, the committee is expected to complete action on recommendations early next week, possibly Tuesday.

The House voted 346-40 to allow broadcasting of committee meetings. The measure was supported by 196 Democrats and 150 Republicans while 17 Democrats and 23 Republicans opposed it.

A few hours later the committee voted 31 to 7 to approve a resolution admitting the broadcast media to the debates. Seventeen Democrats and 14 Republicans were in favor of permitting broadcasting. Three Democrats and four Republicans were against it.

ABC will televise Wednesday's impeachment debate live, CBS will cover it Thursday and NBC Friday. Any network can air all or part of the debate live on the days it doesn't have the primary responsibility for live coverage.

NBC said it has no plans for live TV coverage of the start of the public debate Wednesday, while CBS said it still is considering whether it'll interrupt scheduled programming then.

The public Broadcasting Service said it won't air the debates live but will videotape them for evening broadcasts.

The National Public Radio System said it'll carry the debate live from start to finish. CBS said its radio network also will carry the debate live, but will break away for its regular six-minute newscasts every hour.

NBC Radio and ABC Radio said they will air the debate live only when developments warrant.

The Mutual Broadcasting System said it planned to carry highlights of each day's debate in special evening programs.

Old regime figure takes over Cyprus presidency

By The Associated Press

The Greek Cypriot who took over the Cyprus presidency from the ousted Archbishop Makarios resigned today and a prominent figure in the old regime was named to replace him, Cyprus radio said. The move was seen as an attempt to reach a peace accord with Turkey.

The British reported a new outbreak of fighting on Turkey's invasion beachhead in northern Cyprus near Kyrenia despite a cease-fire agreement accepted by all sides.

Shortly before these developments, Turkey's deputy prime minister, Necmettin Erbakan, renewed an old Turkish demand for partition of the Mediterranean island between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Named to take over the Cypriot presidency was Glafcos Clerides, who was speaker of the House of Representatives before Makarios was overthrown July 15 in a coup by the national guard under the leadership of regular Greek army officers.

The Cyprus radio broadcast said Clerides already had been sworn into office.

Clerides, a lawyer, headed intercommunal talks with the Turks under Makarios.

Nikos Sampson, who took over from Makarios after the national guard seized power and precipitated Turkey's invasion last Saturday, said in an address over the Cyprus radio that Clerides, because of his experience, is better equipped to lead the nation.

Sampson added that he was stepping down with a clear conscience. He maintained that his actions since the coup had been motivated by a desire to avoid civil war between the Turkish and Greek communities which share the island 45 miles from Turkey in the Mediterranean.

The fighting report came from the British Defense Ministry which said in London that the battle action was taking place as a Royal Navy task force was evacuating stranded Britons and other foreigners from the northern coast. The ministry said the evacuation of about 2,500 foreigners was continuing without too much difficulty because the fighting was about six miles from the evacuation point.

The Defense Ministry said it had no details of the battle action.

The United Nations in New York said troops of its peace force on Cyprus took over the airport at Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, because of new fighting there. A U.N. headquarters spokesman said no details of the Nicosia fighting were available to him but that he described it as "a new and serious breach of the ceasefire."

The cease-fire had been called for 10 a. m., EDT, Monday but fighting continued for several hours after that deadline, then about six hours later, the U.N. command on Cyprus reported all quiet on the island and that the cease-fire appeared to be holding.

Earlier today, Associated Press correspondent Frank N. Hawkins Jr. reported from Nicosia that the sporadic fighting broke out along the so-called Green Line separating the Greek and Turkish communities but that in general the cease-fire had been honored by both sides.

The dispatch was filed before the British and U.N. reports of new action.

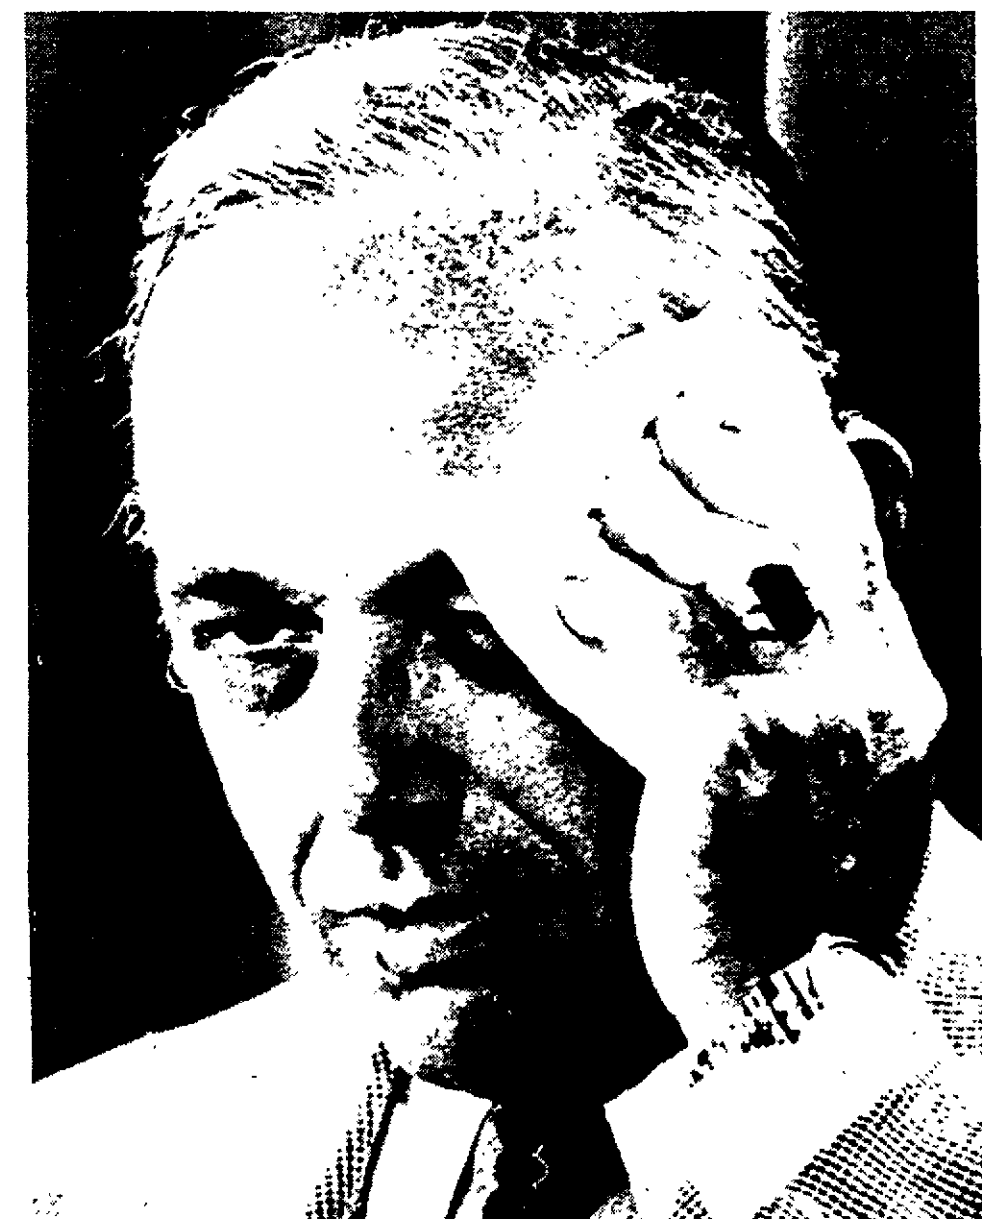

U.S. officials have said they expect fighting to continue between the Greek and Turkish communities for at least several more days.

The Greeks outnumber the Turks on the island by about 4 to 1.

The call for partition by Deputy Prime Minister Erbakan in Ankara was a restatement of a long-standing Turkish demand to give the eastern end of the island to Turkey and the western part to Greece.

The national guard leadership which overthrew Makarios demanded complete union with Greece — or Enosis — which the archbishop opposed.

However, Erbakan did not make clear in his statement to newsmen whether he was speaking for the entire Turkish government or whether partition would be a major demand of Turkey at a meeting in Geneva this week

U.S. evacuees land in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A U.S. Navy ship landed 384 Americans and 82 Lebanese from Cyprus in Beirut today.

The evacuees were among 4,000 foreigners British forces conveyed from Nicosia to a British base on the south coast of the embattled island Sunday, after the Turkish invasion trapped them in the Cypriot capital.

U.S. Navy helicopters ferried the 466 Americans and Lebanese to the amphibious ship Coronado Monday night for the trip to the Lebanese capital.

An American official said the Coronado was the first Navy ship to dock in Beirut since the Lebanese government closed its waters to the U.S. Navy after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

U.S. sailors helped the evacuees disembark at a wharf in Beirut's busy commercial port, carrying babies down the ramp, helping elderly women and unloading baggage with the ship's winches.

Several dozen Lebanese army troops armed with submachine guns stood guard over the operation.

The refugees were taken to the Holiday Inn in downtown Beirut.

Yvonne Bachelis of Pacific Palisades, Calif., said it had been a "terrifying" experience.

"I have never felt raw fear before this," said the tall blonde.

Mrs. Bachelis was one of more than 100 Americans who took refuge in the Hilton Hotel in Nicosia. They slept on the floor of a banquet room in their clothes.

"I didn't know the name of the man sleeping beside me or the little kid on the other side who had her toe in my ear," the woman said.

The most frightening part of the experience "was when Greek Cypriot soldiers began running through the crowded basement and lower floor of the hotel with their guns loaded. People were falling over each other screaming."

Mrs. Bachelis praised the hotel staff who she said remained on duty 24 hours a day serving sandwiches and drinks.

The sight of the American helicopters arriving at the British base "brought tears to our eyes," she reported, and aboard the Coronado the crew gave up their bunks to the refugees and served them ice cream all night.

St. Clair sidesteps strategy queries

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon's Watergate lawyer has refused repeatedly to tell newsmen whether Nixon will abide by the Supreme Court's decision in the latest Watergate tapes case.

James D. St. Clair, appearing at a nationally televised news conference after conferring with Nixon for about two hours on Monday at San Clemente, fended off some 10 questions from reporters that focused on the court ruling expected this week.

In all the questioning, at White House press headquarters here, St. Clair provided a flat answer only when asked if Nixon could plead the Fifth Amendment and withhold tapes if the court directs him to surrender them to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"I don't know whether it would be legally possible or not, but I can assure you he will not plead the Fifth Amendment," the Boston attorney responded.

Asked whether Nixon already had a contingency plan to deal with an adverse ruling, St. Clair said, "No, and I don't see how he can until he gets the decision, reads the opinion and consults with counsel."

Vice President Gerald R. Ford said on July 13, after conferring with Nixon at San Clemente, that he assumed any citizen would abide by a decision of the Supreme Court. However, St. Clair and other Nixon aides have ducked the question consistently. Said St. Clair:

"I must insist I feel to answer the questions would inject my view as to what the decision ought to be and, therefore, I have consistently and will continue to consistently continue to not answer."

He also argued "it is highly improper to discuss a case that is pending before a court."

Jaworski seeks 64 additional tapes of presidential conversations which he says are needed for the trial of seven former Nixon aides and campaign officials scheduled to go on trial Sept. 9 on Watergate cover-up charges.

The Supreme Court case also embraces the question of whether a federal grand jury that returned the indictments was within its rights in voting to name Nixon an undicted co-conspirator.

St. Clair, dealing with related questions, also told his newsmen:

—No tapes have been burned or destroyed but some might not have existed in the first place, simply because conversations were not recorded.

—He believes Congress and the American people ultimately will reach conclusions about Nixon's guilt or innocence on the basis of a single issue — whether he authorized the payment of hush money to convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt.

—Special counsel John Doar of the House Judiciary Committee "admittedly has abandoned any views of impartiality and has stated explicitly that he feels the committee must vote to impeach the President. I suggest that is not his function."

—He disagrees with the committee's

Missile goes astray, 6 in chopper thought dead

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Six U.S. Navy men were missing and considered dead today after a heat-seeking missile went astray Monday and destroyed the helicopter in which they were flying 70 miles off the Philippine coast.

The missile was fired by a Navy F4 Phantom jet.

A Navy spokesman said both the plane and the SH3 helicopter were from the aircraft carrier Ranger, which was holding a training exercise en route to the Subic Bay Naval Base north of Manila.

Two destroyers, the Jouett and the Bradley, arrived at the crash scene moments after the shooting and reported citing only debris from the helicopter.

The Navy spokesman said the jet was trying to fire the Sidewinder missile at a parachute flare target. He said there was an apparently successful launch but "the missile did not fly the expected track to the intended target ..."

The Navy did not identify the pilot.

Those aboard the helicopter were identified as Lt. Donald Gene Allen of Chickasha, Okla.; Lt. (j.g.) Roger Oster Woodring of Tyrone, Pa.; Danny Earl Porter, an aviation electronics technician 2nd class from Dunnellon, Fla.; Steven Rolla Sanchez, an aviation structural mechanic 3rd class, from Portland Ore.; and two photographers' mates, Airmen Ronald Francis St. John of Palmer, Mass., and John David Graham of Kailua, Hawaii.

The spokesman said he had no information on the distance involved or the mission the men in the helicopter were carrying out.

Arab guerrillas caught in Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Security forces caught a team of six Arab guerrillas Monday after a bomb one of them was placing went off prematurely, the semi-official Israeli state radio reported today.

The report said the bomb was being placed near a public building in Jenin, on the occupied West Bank, and the explosion wounded one of the guerrillas.

The Arabs were residents of the West Bank but had been trained in guerrilla bases in Jordan and Syria, the report said. It added that they had a cache of weapons hidden near Zichron Yaacov, an Israeli town near Haifa.

3rd new premier named in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's military reformers have picked Michael Imru, a 44-year-old aristocrat, to be Emperor Haile Selassie's third prime minister in five months.

The military, which has been the controlling power in this East African kingdom through five months of unrest, fired Prime Minister Endalkachew Makonnen on Monday. The official Ethiopian news agency said the armed forces coordinating committee accused him of siding with former officials the army has arrested for corruption and misuse of power.

Imru, minister of social and economic affairs under Makonnen, is considered more progressive than the ousted premier.

Imru is the son of Prince Imru Haile Selassie, a second cousin of the emperor. But his father is one of the few aristocrats close to the ruler who has not been accused of corruption.

The son was educated at Oxford, was ambassador to Moscow and then headed the Ethiopian mission at the European headquarters of the United Nations in Geneva. His appointment was announced while he was in Switzerland arranging to move his family back to Ethiopia.

The military is holding about 60 former ministers on corruption charges, and there was speculation that Makonnen might now join them.

The official news agency said he had been an obstacle to the smooth transition of the country to parliamentary government and had tried to create dissension among the armed forces.

The report said that the coordinating committee appeared Monday before the emperor — who is 82 today — to get his consent to Imru's appointment. It thanked him for his approval of a constitutional convention to revise the present constitution and give the Ethiopian people a more representative and democratic form of government.

The committee told the ruler its aims were to build on the basis the emperor had laid down for the progress and development of the country, the statement said.

Sources close to the government said on Monday night that Lt. Gen. Aman Andom, the armed forces chief of staff, had been named acting defense minister. Makonnen's defense minister, Lt. Gen. Abiy Abebe, was arrested last week by the armed forces committee.

Nixon economics rate low

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says 83 per cent of the American public surveyed gives the Nixon administration's economic policy an "only fair" or "poor" rating.

Harris added on Monday that the President's efforts to keep the economy healthy drew "good" or "excellent" marks from only 14 per cent of the 1,513 households questioned in a recent nationwide survey.

How do you teach kids about sex?

When parents are involved in discussing sex and religion, the topic might swing to what to teach children. Do you say intercourse without marriage is OK? If not, how do you defend or enforce your ruling?

The topic came up several times during a recent, three-day course during College Week. Sponsored by the University of Wisconsin-Extension, it was held on the Madison campus. The Rev. Lowell H. Mays, American Lutheran clergyman and staff member at the UW Health Service and Madison General Hospital, conducted the class. But he wouldn't answer those questions.

"Control doesn't work," he declared. "It has never worked well in any culture." Rules work only when most people in society accept them, he added. In effect, the rules often say, "It's OK as long as I permit it." Yet the parent is ruling over something he or she can't control.

"People don't care and don't wait for permission," Mays pointed out.

The same rules don't fit everyone, either. "You can't presume anyone else is at the same place you are," he said. "They haven't gone the same route. So you're stuck with pluralism." Allowing people to go separate ways isn't bad, he said. Rather, it's been a strength in our nation.

But not laying down the law doesn't mean the parent gives no guidance. Guidance begins at birth, the clergyman noted. A child's lifestyle is pretty well decided at the age of decision about intercourse.

He warned parents against the danger of considering that intercourse before marriage is dirty and after marriage is holy.

Instead, he advised, "teach that intercourse is holy all along. Your children will have more respect for it."

Instead of saying it's naughty, teach children that it can be inappropriate and irresponsible.

If you give children the impression that intercourse is naughty or bad, you're "telling the Creator (God), 'You didn't do a good job.' You'll have trouble with the Creator then," the instructor said.

"To my children, I'm not going to be as arbitrary as my parents in teaching sex," Mays continued.

"We live in a less arbitrary culture today."

Instead of rules, he describes his personal commitment. He doesn't impose his views on his children or others, but tells them where he stands.

There's a big distinction between imposing and exposing, the minister stressed. "I want to expose my value system to everyone. I want to impose my value system on none."

All anyone can do, he feels, is explain where he or she stands on the issue. This needs commitment, he pointed out.

Once that's explained, there's nothing more to do, he said. "Then the receiver says, 'Thank you.' That's all."

There's no attempt to impose that stand on the child.

Ellen Sullivan attends FHA meeting

"It was an exciting week packed with concern sessions, resource labs and outstanding speakers, fun times, a night at the famous Auditorium Theater and sightseeing around Chicago," said Ellen Sullivan when she returned from Chicago where she attended the national meeting of Future Homemakers of America at the Conrad Hilton Hotel July 15 through 18.

Miss Sullivan, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Sullivan, route 1, is a member of the Hortonville FHA Hero chapter and was selected as one of 45 home economics students in the state who acted as official delegates to the meeting.

Two thousand youth delegates represented a national membership of about half a million. Theme for the gathering was "Search."

Ellen says she discovered resources for use in improving herself, understanding others and exploring careers.

She pointed out that there were "so many interesting sessions at the meeting it was difficult to decide which had the most meaning. It was a real learning experience," she said, "and one of the best things about it was the opportunity to make a lot of friends from all across the country. The election and installation of 12 new FHA national officers and three national representatives of Hero chapters was thrilling and impressive."

"Being selected as a delegate to this national meeting was a wonderful experience and a great honor for me. I am thankful for having been given this opportunity," she said.

What's borsch for goose is duck soup for gander

West opens the three of spades, just as in the hand shown yesterday, hoping to give his partner an eventual spade ruff.

Now let's call to our aid an old Russian proverb: Wh't's borsch for the goose is duck soup for the gander. Just as West knows the spade situation and tries to get a ruffing trick, so South also should know what is going on and must try to prevent the ruff.

REFUSES FINESSE

Declarer wins the first trick in dummy with the nine of spades and leads the ten of hearts just in case East is obliging enough to cover with the king. The world is full of players who believe in covering an honor with an honor, and it's cruel to deprive them of their opportunities.

In this case, however, East must play a low heart, and South must refuse the finesse. If declarer finessed, West would win with the king of hearts, cash the ace of spades and lead a third spade to give East a ruff.

Instead, South puts up the ace of hearts and runs three rounds of clubs to discard a spade from dummy. This discard, from declarer's strongest side suit, prevents a third-round spade ruff.

Now South can lead another trump to give up a trick to the king. West can take his ace of spades whenever he likes, but he cannot give East a ruff. South loses only one spade, one diamond and one trump.

Ann Landers

Next it will be whips and chains

Dear Ann Landers: Please settle our first fight. Bud and I have been dating for four months and I really love him. The problem is that lately he has become a tickling maniac. At first I thought it was funny, but now he's driving me crazy.

Last night he actually tied my hands and held me in a chair while his best friend took off my shoes and hose and tickled the bottom of my feet with a feather for what seemed like an eternity.

When they finally untied me I used some language I didn't know was part of my vocabulary. They were shocked—and so was I.

Now Bud is mad at me and says I made a big scene over nothing. I claim that what he did was not normal. He says I'm the one who is loony.

It took me months to get this guy to notice me and ask me out. This first fight is killing me. What do you make of it?—Still Rattled

Dear Still Rattled: Your "dreamboat" has a streak of sadism an inch thick and a yard wide. To tickle for fun, for a few seconds, is O.K. But to tie a girl's hands and invite a buddy in as part of the act is pretty sick stuff and you'd better recognize it now before the dingbat graduates to whips and chains.

Dear Ann Landers: I am having an argument with a friend and when I tell you what my question is you will know why I have to write to you. No way could I go to anyone else.

Is it possible for a human being to get pregnant by an animal? All I need is a yes or a no. I will take your word for it.—No Name No City Please

Dear N.N.N.C.: The answer is no. And you can take my word for it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a registered nurse who has worked in some of the finest hospitals in town for several years. Due to some personal problems I went to pieces and had to spend a few weeks in a mental institution. The diagnosis was "depression."

Recently I applied to the hospital (in which I was a patient) for a part-time job. I was able to supply excellent references and a very impressive work record. One of the questions on the application form was, "Have you ever received psychiatric treatment for an emotional breakdown?" Of course I answered honestly.

I did not get the job and I later learned that no one even bothered to check with the people whose names I gave as references.

There is no question in my mind as to why I wasn't hired. It was because of my "psychiatric history."

From now on if I ever see that question on an application form, I will not answer truthfully. What a shame to put such a stigma on one who has had help with an emotional problem. And how dreadful to make liars out of people. Will you comment please? — Smarter Now

Dear Smarter: I believe that question should be declared illegal on all job application forms. Actually it does not weed out the unstable or incompetents. It serves no useful purpose.

I consider individuals who have had psychiatric therapy or professional counseling "extra special." It is evidence that the person recognized he had a problem he couldn't handle alone and was willing to do something about it.

Welcome

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Abitz, members of the reunion committee, welcome Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lange, Denmark, to the party for the first three classes that graduated from Fox Valley Lutheran High, including 1957, 58 and 59. The event was Friday evening at the Country Aire and included cocktails, dinner and dancing to the music of the Vibritones.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Boredom plays havoc with young and old

Dear Dr. Thosteson: There must be others besides myself who would like to know how we can help a member of our family in a nursing home to have some physical therapy. They get so little exercise walking from their room to the dining room and back. Soon they are bed patients only because of inactivity.

There must be something we can do to help them. They are not allowed to go outdoors by themselves because they might wander off.

It seems to me some sort of physical therapy should be required in every nursing home. Please comment and tell how we can help. — E.G.

For openers, you might arrange to go to the nursing home fairly frequently and take your relative for walks. The mental stimulation of having these visits might be even more useful than the sheer exercise.

As I've written in this column before, just plain boredom plays gradual havoc with anybody, young or old, and homes with programs of activities, however simple, for their occupants are making a valuable contribution to them.

When you suggest making "physical therapy" mandatory in nursing homes, I'm afraid you are asking for more than you realize. Such a requirement would add substantially to the cost of such homes and it would have to reflect in the charges made for such care.

But I do feel that keeping people interested has a tremendous impact on their well-being.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please send your booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," for which I enclose 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed, return envelope.

About nine years ago, when I was in the hospital for something else, by chance my doctor found I had diverticulosis. I was told to eat no roughage, but going without roughage is no help to my constipation. — E.D.

Call it roughage, call it "bulk," but avoiding it altogether is no longer accepted as the proper course with diverticulosis.

Avoid the few irritants which are known to be risky with that condition, but as you'll find in the booklet (re-

Peak quality signs in fresh sweet corn

Although sweet corn is available most of the year, homegrown and nearby corn is reaching its peak soon. Fresh corn for corn-on-the-cob enjoyment has a certain look about it when it's top quality.

The trick is to purchase it as soon after being picked as possible, then use it as soon as possible and by all means store it in the refrigerator if the fresh corn is to be held any length of time. If corn is held too long — and that goes for its storage time in the supermarket, too — or is held at too high a temperature, the sugar in the kernels begins to turn to starch.

Therefore, learn all the signs of freshness and top quality. Look for ears well covered with bright, plump kernels. Husks should be fresh and green. Silk ends should be free of decay or worm injury. Stems should not be discolored or dried.

Avoid ears of corn with underdeveloped kernels as well as very large and over-mature kernels. Avoid ears with kernels that have depressed areas on the outer surface. Avoid yellowed, wilted or dried husks.

am a diabetic of many years and recently had to change doctors.

My previous doctors always have taken blood from the arm but the new one does not. His nurse said the finger-prick blood test is sufficient, along with the urine tape test. — O.

There is a finger-prick test that will give the range of blood sugar — high or low. It will not give an exact reading as the more detailed and lengthy chemical analysis, but often the range is all the doctor needs to know — if too high or too low, adjustment of diet or insulin (or other medication) is indicated.

The finger-prick test is convenient, it gives an immediate answer and is not as costly.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. Thosteson's booklet discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases and effective treatments and medications. Home economics instructors to meet

MADISON — Ten home economics educators, including Ellen Goolsbey, Appleton High School-East, will be meeting Wednesday and Thursday to discuss the areas of nutrition education that home economics education should cover.

They will be attending the workshop to assist in the development of a multi-disciplinary nutrition education curriculum guide, sponsored by the State Department of Public Instruction (DPI).

Until now, according to DPI nutrition education consultants, nutrition education has been included in only a few subject areas that has included nutrition concepts in its curriculum.

However, the importance of nutrition education has become so apparent in the last several years that DPI advocates a multi-disciplinary approach to teaching nutrition so that a maximum number of students can benefit.

Vote of confidence for Hortonville board, administrators

BY JOHN LEE
Post-Crescent staff writer

HORTONVILLE — District electors Monday night voiced overwhelming support for the way the board of education and administration have handled the teacher strike, shouting down an attempt to fire Supt. of Schools Marvin Obry and awarding raises of up to 67 per cent to board members.

About 500 persons attended the annual district meeting in the junior high gymnasium, while Outagamie County Sheriff Department officers stood by to discourage trouble.

Residents of the district were required to register before entering the gym, listing their names and addresses to prove residency. Nonresidents were seated in separate sections of the gym.

In addition to the salary increases approved for school board members, electors voted to uphold a pay hike for Obry, approved at last month's school board meeting.

A motion passed on a 360-51 vote, calling board members "dedicated people who put a lot of time into their work." The board president will receive $1,000 annually, compared with $605 last year; the clerk will get $1,200, compared with $1,100; the treasurer will get $1,000, compared with $990, and other board members will get $600, compared with $495.

"Surely these old salaries do not reflect in any way the time they have to put in to serve this district," one resident said.

A Greenville resident, who pointed out that Obry received a 9.7 per cent raise last month, said the average state wage increase was 4.7 per cent. He recommended cutting back Obry's salary from $20,150 to $19,277, a motion that was defeated, 310-91.

After board President Roger Weihsing said Obry's salary had been low compared with other districts Hortonville's size, one board member supported asked for a "resounding vote of confidence."

Peter Fourness, Greenville, a supporter of the fired teachers, said the 9.7

per cent raise "is a little more than a vote of confidence — we're talking about our tax dollar being spent in excess."

When the district's budget was approved and meeting chairman Gene Retzlaff, Hortonville, an Outagamie County supervisor, asked for any other business, a Town of Hortonville man replied, "I'd like to make a motion to fire Obry and Kohls."

That motion was strongly defeated, again bringing cheers and applause from most of the crowd.

Obry and High School Principal Robert Kohls had been criticized by many of the striking teachers and their supporters during the conflict this year that ended in the system's teachers going on strike and the school board retaliating by firing them.

Most of the 88 striking teachers remained fired and school resumed after replacement teachers were hired. The teachers are continuing to lobby for their cause in the Hortonville area and throughout the state.

In other action Monday at the annual meeting, electors voted to authorize the school board to borrow $90,000 next year to remodel the school bus garage, making the building acceptable for high school industrial arts classes.

The work, which will add about 5,000 square feet of shop and classroom space to the overcrowded facility, will be financed with state trust fund money. The board can get the state loan at 4.5 per cent interest.

Obry said heating, ventilating and electrical changes will have to be added to make the garage acceptable for shop use, but said the state will not require additional sanitary facilities in the garage.

While the district has 20 years to repay the loan, the board plans to retire the debt in two or three years.

Obry explained that capital expenditures are not eligible for state aids, but said the school would receive aids on debt retirement. He estimated that the district will get an additional $20,000 in

Two floors of vacant house gutted by fire

Fire destroyed the upper two floors of a vacant three-story house at 224 W. Prospect Ave. about 5 a.m. today.

No injuries were reported from the blaze, which is under investigation by the state fire marshal's office. Demolition work had recently been started on the structure, owned by the city and located in an area designated for use in the proposed Oneida Street bridge construction project.

The fire was detected by a passing police squad car driver, Donald Herman, who noticed what appeared to be a faint glow or the light from a lantern coming from the third floor. He went into the building and found a large box filled with rubbish on fire.

Herman then started out toward his car to call in the fire, but the blaze spread quickly through the third floor just as he was leaving.

When firemen arrived, flames were shooting about 15 feet into the air from the third story windows as the upper story was engulfed by the fire.

They said it took from 30 to 45 minutes to bring the blaze under control. The fire did not spread to any nearby buildings, one of which is a garage located behind the house.

Fire Chief Fred Selig said the possibility of arson has not been ruled out.

Police reportedly have been having recent difficulties with children and transients entering and staying in the wood frame structure. No one was seen in or near the building when Herman discovered the fire, however.

The home had been owned by the late William H. Zuehlke Sr., a founder of Aid Association for Lutherans, who died in 1969.

Speener to study charges some of staff don't work hard

Outagamie County Health Center Supt. Eugene K. Speener said Monday that he would investigate charges that some members of his medical staff are not working hard enough.

The allegations were aired by Kelland Lathrop, a member of the health center board of trustees, during a meeting Monday.

In other business, trustees:

- Indicated little desire to enter into a broadened contract with Physical Therapy Center, Inc., of Appleton, as proposed July 8 by John Madden, president of the firm.
- Were told by Speener that it could cost about $20,000 to install a health center sprinkler system. Lack of a sprinkler system has been cited as a deficiency. Speener promised more information on estimates at the next meeting.
- Were told that an Appleton taxi firm has submitted a $6 per hour bid for transporting intoxicated persons after a new alcoholism treatment program begins Aug. 1, at which time public intoxication no longer is a crime in Wisconsin.
- Went into closed door session to discuss the hiring of a full-time psychiatrist and to discuss, with Corp. Counsel William Schuh, the plans for a Wednesday afternoon meeting at which a public hearing date will be set for Speener.

The hearing will be to determine whether trustees have sufficient grounds to fire Speener, against whom several civil charges of misconduct, malfeasance, neglect, inefficiency and dereliction in office were filed by two private investigators last month.

Expected to attend the 2 p.m. meeting in the county board room are trustees, Speener's attorney, Schuh and attorney James Bayorgeon, who was hired by trustees to investigate Speener.

Lathrop said he has received calls from health center employees complaining about some members of the medical staff "wasting too much time" on the job.

The latest complaint, Lathrop explained, came late last week from an employee whose name he did not reveal.

Lathrop echoed the complaints after another trustee, John Wylie, was critical of doctors who, he said, were not submitting fully completed payroll vouchers.

After the meeting, Lathrop told a reporter he was not necessarily referring to staff physicians when he made the "loafing" allegations. But he declined to reveal who his sources named.

Lathrop said Speener, as superintendent, should be held accountable for the actions of the medical staff. Speener said it would be difficult to take action unless he knew the source of the complaints, but he said he would investigate. He had not heard loafing allegations against the medical staff, he remarked.

Trustee President Sylvester Esler was angered by Lathrop's remarks.

Employees who have complaints "should have guts enough to come before the board of trustees," he snapped.

"They will," Lathrop replied, apparently referring to anticipated employee appearances at Speener's hearing.

"If we're going to criticize the medical staff, we might as well close this place up," Esler remarked.

Trustees showed little enthusiasm for Kaukauna school board eyes use of utility building

KAUKAUNA — The board of education is showing an interest in making use of the utility and municipal office building and garage which the utility commission may abandon.

With the decision by the city to purchase and remodel the former Badger Northland plant into a combination city hall, municipal garage and safety building, the utility commission has been studying the feasibility of combining all its activities into the utility-owned building across from the high school.

It has approached the school board to ask if the old building could be used by the school system. School officials are interested in garage and storage space, and the building could serve them along these lines.

The board has instructed school officials to notify the utility commission of an interest in the building.

Officials said that much time and study would have to be go into looking at possible uses of the building before they would be willing to make a firm commitment on whether to begin discussions on such items as rental, lease or acquisition of the structure.

'Disaster' reveals 2 problem areas

BY BERNIE PETERSON
Post-Crescent staff writer

Planning and communications are two chief areas which will need improvement if area officials are to hope to avert confusion and delays exhibited by a practice disaster alert in Appleton last Tuesday.

That view was presented by James Joyce, a state government official responsible for overseeing the mock disaster, set up to determine how local hospitals, law enforcement and disaster relief agencies would respond to the alert. In this case, the disaster was a tornado which struck Edison School, killing nine children and injuring about 150 others.

"I thought you did a pretty good job of rattling your own skeletons," Joyce observed after a two-hour session this morning, in which representatives of the various agencies gave their views on what went wrong with the alert.

A large share of the criticism was fired off by Fire Chief Fred Selig, who charged that the alert was more akin to "playing games" than it was to a supposedly real situation.

"Such an exercise should be as close as possible to the real thing," said Selig. "You don't mickey mouse around."

Among Selig's complaints was one that emergency government coordinator Howard Rathbun set up too many things in advance. For example, Rathbun said he had 50 litters waiting at the disaster scene, that he had medical supplies waiting at the main fire station, and that the agencies involved all had ample advance notice of the alert, and thus were simply waiting for it to take place.

Preparations such as those don't effectively mirror reality, Selig maintained.

Included in his other complaints:

- 1) Selig apparently was left in charge, but there was no one coordinating the overall disaster effort.
- 2) Red Cross personnel stood by him at his command post, waiting for instructions from him instead of getting to work on the relief effort.

- 3) Buses called to the scene were parked too close together, and they were not loaded up with patients immediately.
- 4) Areas for separating the more seriously injured patients were not clearly defined.
- 5) Litters were placed in front of the command post, making it hard to get to.
- 6) No emergency medical technicians were on the buses going to the hospitals.
- 7) The Civil Air Patrol set up its own, separate, command post.
- 8) There was no designated point for receipt and distribution of medical supplies.
- 9) EMTs and firemen were consigned to carrying litters, something which is not part of their normal function, and something which could not be realistically expected in a true disaster.
- 10) There were no provisions made for the possible use of heavy equipment at the scene.

Among frequent complaints from the group was the lack of well-defined leadership at the scene. Some felt that Rathbun should have been in charge and that he failed to take the initiative.

There were some complaints about the buses used to transport patients to the city's two hospitals. Besides being difficult to get patients on litters into, the school buses probably would have proved hazardous had any of the patients actually been unconscious. Many children complained that they easily could have fallen from their stretchers, which were placed on top of the seats, onto the floor.

Selig was critical of the time delay in getting the original time call through. The first report of the tornado was made to the office section of the sheriff's department at 9:55 a.m. The woman taking the call failed to pass on the information. The same happened with a second call at 10:10 a.m.

Only on a third call, at 10:20, did the word get through, and that was because the caller specifically asked for the radio room dispatcher.

Nickname debate spices Little Chute meeting

BY MAUREEN BLANEY
Post-Crescent staff writer

LITTLE CHUTE — About 45 at the annual school electors' district meeting Monday night approved a $1,600,768 budget with few questions, but hassled for about half an hour on a proposal to change the school nickname from Mustangs to Dutchmen.

The new budget calls for a tax rate of $19.61 per $1,000 of equalized valuation compared to $16.13 last year. The amount to be raised by local taxes will increase from $441,028 to $549,544 in the approved budget.

In discussion of new business, Joseph VandenHogen proposed that the nickname be changed from Mustangs because of the history of the village and the idea that the name Dutchmen is associated with Little Chute throughout the state.

VandenHogen was supported by Village President Edward Spierings, who agreed that the historical value of the name was something to be kept alive.

William Fitzpatrick, athletic director at the school and a former coach at St. John High School, pointed out that the electors did not have the right to change something when the students had spent the past eight years building an image as the Mustangs. He also pointed out that St. John's nickname had been the Dutchmen before it was closed in the spring of 1973 and hard feelings would be created.

School Supt. Mark Stone pointed out that there was much tension between the students during the past year because of the past rivalries and he said he would hate to see a name change create additional problems. He suggested that perhaps in four years when all the students had attended school together for some time, a name change could be suggested.

The motion by VandenHogen to take a vote on the matter brought the response from school board members that the electorate did not have the power at the annual meeting and the matter was under the control of the board of education.

However, it was suggested that a vote could be taken as a recommendation to the school board of the electorate's wishes. The vote brought a response of 17 in favor of recommending the change and 22 opposed.

In the review of the budget, major changes included secretarial and clerical salaries which increased from $13,945 spent this past year to a proposed $23,750 for 1974-75. Stone explained that the increase was due to the addition of staff and bringing the secretarial salaries up to a point where they should have been.

The increase in contracted services from $18,139 to $27,420 was based largely on the increase in services demanded by recent state legislation concerning education for children with special learning difficulties. The law

Kimberly will vote on new athletic field

BY MARY JO HIBBERT
Post-Crescent staff writer

KIMBERLY — Electors in the Kimberly Joint School District approved an August referendum on a new athletic field at Kimberly High School not to exceed $250,000 at the annual meeting of the district Monday.

The new facilities, to be located adjacent to the high school, would include a paved parking lot and intramural area, two softball diamonds, a baseball diamond, soccer and football practice field and a one-half mile track.

This is the second attempt by the Kimberly Board of Education to obtain what Board President Marie Ruys described as "a much needed addition to our school system." First proposed to the public in a referendum in April of 1973, the idea of the field was defeated. Brought up again at the annual meeting last July, the idea was passed under the leadership of a citizens group.

Following allegations that that the school board had attempted to "swindle" taxpayers by passing the motion after its defeat in the spring referendum, citizens called for rescinding of the annual meeting action. A special district meeting was held in August of last year, at which the time the electorate overturned the action of the previous meeting.

Deadline set on boys home

Concerned over uncertainties surrounding the future of a boys group home, the Outagamie County Eoard of Social Services Monday afternoon gave Peeters Group Home a week to decide if it wants to sell or lease to the county.

Donald Peeters informed the Department of Social Services in April that he was terminating his group home contract with the county July 1 because he and his wife were getting out of the business.

The Peeters built a 20-room group home for troubled and delinquent boys in 1967. The home is 10 miles northwest of Shiocton.

The social services board has been negotiating unsuccessfully with Peeters for several weeks. Members said Monday that it now appears Peeters wants to sell the home instead of lease it.

Earlier indications were that he would sell the home and adjoining five acres for about $60,000 or lease it to the county for $790 per month.

Town OKs bonds for nursing home complex

BY PETER BACH
News-Record staff writer
TOWN OF MENASHA — The town board Monday night gave preliminary approval to the sale of $2.5 million in industrial revenue bonds to finance an independent nursing home-apartment venture on the town's east side.

Appleton attorney Allen Bubolz, who represented Maloa Villa, the Wisconsin limited partnership who is developing the project, said a 156-bed nursing home and a 32-unit apartment facility are planned. The property is off S. Oneida Street near Maloa Street.

Both buildings, which will be separate, will be single-story low profile structures constructed in a Spanish motif, Bubolz said.

The facility will be fully qualified for Medicare and Medicaid patients and will qualify for government aids and reimbursements, Bubolz said. An Appleton architect retained by the developers has completed architectural drawings. None were available for public inspection Monday.

Bubolz said a late fall groundbreaking has been tentatively planned and the necessary approvals from various health authorities, including a certificate of authorization to proceed from the state, have been obtained.

A study by a consultant indicated that the three-county area of Winnebago, Calumet and Outagamie Counties could support an additional 160 nursing home beds. Bubolz said.

The partnership includes, Bubolz said, himself, Robert Hoepfner, a building contractor and a partner in a real estate firm which manages the Oakridge Court Apartments, and several Appleton businessmen who he didn't name. Bubolz and Hoepfner are partners in the real estate business and manage nursing homes and other properties.

In excess of 100 persons would operate the nursing home and apartment facility initially, Bubolz said.

The town board's vote to give the preliminary approval to the financing was unanimous, by voice vote. The board approved a 2½ page resolution justifying industrial revenue bonding for the venture which included the assertions that the new facility would "significantly" increase the tax base of the town and contribute favorably to the job climate.

Under state laws governing industrial revenue bonding, the town may borrow money and issue revenue bonds to finance the costs of acquiring, equipping, purchasing and constructing projects suitable for use by a revenue-producing enterprise such as Maloa Villa, and then lease the project.

The industrial bonding method has distinct advantages. Unlike conventional borrowing methods, interest is far lower and improves a project's economic prospects.

There is no liability to the town, a feature which Supv. Frederick Miller said Monday he was still not entirely convinced of, and the bonds, once they hit the market, may be purchased tax free. Furthermore, industrial revenue bonds do not affect a municipality's bonded indebtedness.

From here, following the town board's preliminary nod Monday night, the project is subject to the final approval of the board and mutual agreement of the board, the limited partnership and the initial purchasers of the bonds.

Under the procedure, the town issues the bonds then reimburses the limited partnership with the proceeds from the sale as bonds are issued.

According to the resolution, E.J. Prescott and Company, a Minneapolis investment banking firm and bond dealer, had assured the town the project is economically feasible with municipal financing.

Neighborhood show

A number of smaller neighborhood children watched a Friday afternoon puppet show with intense curiosity. The show, presented in the garage of the Orvie Buhl residence at 50 Bellaire Court, Appleton, was planned and presented by five of the neighborhood's older boys. Jim Barlament, Ben Nabbefeld, David Stephen, Tom Bulh and Charlie Breunig constructed the stage, wrote the script and completely planned and carried out the afternoon's entertainment. Two arrested after robbery

OSHKOSH — Two Shiocton brothers were arrested here at gunpoint Monday night within minutes after police said the men robbed an Oshkosh service station.

Taken into custody were Jose A. Anaya, 19, and Raymond J. Anaya, 23. Both are expected to be brought into Winnebago County Court this morning and charged with robbery.

Police said the robbery occurred at 9:04 p.m. at the Consolidated Service Station, 707 S. Main St. According to station manager Lynn Durant of Omro, the two men, wearing masks over their faces, walked into the station through a back alley, approached a 16-year-old attendant and told him to hand over the receipts or he and another employee, 17, would be harmed. The youths, who were not harmed in the incident, gave the men $50.

A passerby who saw the robbery taking place notified police, who arrived within moments after the robbers fled from the station.

Police said the brothers began running in opposite directions when officers approached them. One was found hiding on South Main Street, one block south of the station. Raymond Anaya was apprehended around the corner on W. Seventh Avenue. Both men, found to be unarmed, were arrested at gunpoint and taken to the Winnebago County jail.

Police, who searched the area around the station, said the $50 was recovered on the ground nearby. No weapons were discovered during the search.

Roland Kampo back on board

BY PETER BACH
News-Record staff writer
TOWN OF MENASHA — Former town chairman Roland Kampo, who was ousted 15 months ago after four consecutive terms in office, was returned to town government Monday night as a town supervisor.

By a predictable 2 to 1 vote Kampo got the nod over seven other candidates to fill the unexpired term of Supv. Robert Wisner who is moving out of the town. Wisner's resignation is effective Aug. 1.

Kampo's appointment drew a mixed reaction from townspeople who packed the town hall, ranging from outright applause from his longtime supporters to groans and sharp criticism from his enemies.

Supv. Frederick Miller and Town Clerk Robert Jacobs teamed up to cast the deciding votes. Town Chairman George Strohmeier, who cited his and Kampo's "extreme differences on anything," filed the lone dissenting vote.

Jacobs' blanket rejection of the two female candidates in the field added fuel to the debate.

Following a reading of letters from the candidates outlining their qualifications and some intervening action on other town business, Jacobs declared, "I don't think it's a position for a woman."

"A woman would not be able to undertake the task of road repairs and such as that," Jacobs asserted as the women in the audience groaned with disbelief. "In the amount of time we have, I don't think they'd (the women candidates) be able to do it."

Jacobs said in the nine months until the next election, the board will be dealing with "very complex" road matters beyond the grasp of the women. With that, he nominated Kampo and Miller seconded it.

His contentions brought accusations of prejudice.

"Is it prejudice?" asked Agnes Van Eperen. "We're half of the citizens."

"I've done road work," said Helen Doberstein, a real estate agent who was one of the two female candidates for from the ground up.

"I can put on overalls and go right out on the site which I've done already. I have done these things from Alaska to here. These are some women who know this work."

Jacobs and Miller defended Kampo during the portion of the meeting when qualifying letters were read.

"There are very few persons around this locality who know more about town government," Jacobs said of Kampo. "I think the town was working a lot better (with Kampo) than in the last year and a half," Miller asserted.

Kampo, who was present, told townspeople, "My decisions will be based on the majority of the people of the town."

"I think Mr. Kampo votes what is best for the majority of the people," Jacobs said. "I have yet to see Rolie count a vote. I believe Mr. Kampo has helped the town despite what some might think. Up until today, I didn't know who I was going to nominate," Jacobs said.

In dispute of the last statement, however, a woman in the audience charged, "I think Bob (Jacobs) had that all cooked and dried for Kampo. You lost sleep over it thinking he wouldn't get it. We've had enough of him."

Another woman concurred saying the town was tired of Kampo's administration. "Why do you think he was voted out last time?"

Franz Vaurio, secretary of the sanitary district commission which is currently unraveling an enormous financial mess, said the record would show that many of the actions leading to the problem began in Kampo's administration.

But Kampo replied he would readily debate with anyone past decisions he made concerning sanitary district matters.

Kimberly school . . .

The creation of additional athletic facilities will, according to school board members, "meet the needs of the physical education program and the inter-scholastic athletics program, both of which are tremendously important to our school program and how our children feel about themselves."

Kimberly athletes currently use facilities at Memorial Field, a five-acre site where the football, baseball and softball field are all "cramped" into an area that was originally meant to serve 355 total students, but now is expected to accommodate almost ten times that many, or 3,332 students according to the board member who presented the plans to the electors.

Students now using the field for interscholastic sports number between 347 and 425, one board member told the 30 people in attendance, "compared with less than 80 25 years ago. And we're using the same facilities." Memorial Field will be retained for football games, assessments.

If bonding for the project is passed by voters, will be made over a 20-year period, at a rate of $3.75 per year on a $25,000 home and $3 per year on a $20,000 home.

Audience members questioned the tax levy, access to the area, the time period to be used for assessment and bonding and whether the area would be used for spectator sports or merely physical education class activities before approving the $250,000 referendum.

Cost breakdown for the area allocates $120,900 for site preparation and related costs, $2,200 for the parking area, $17,000 for the baseball diamond, $2,500 for the two softball diamonds, $26,100 for the track, $1,600 for concrete walkways, $11,500 for water mains and related construction, $10,600 for contingency, $13,800 for engineering and $3,000 for legal and administrative fees.

At the budget hearing held earlier, business manager Myron Huth cited inflation, Chapter 89 of the Wisconsin Statutes, which calls for equalized education opportunities for children with exceptional educational problems, an 18 per cent increase in employer's share of teacher retirement funds, a 50 per cent increase in the employer's share of retirement funding for non-teaching personnel and a 22 per cent increase in Social Security as major reasons for the increased school budget, which was approved at $3,516,112, more than an 11 per cent hike over the previous school year.

"All I can say," Huth commented, "is that we've done our best. You know, from past annual meetings, that this is not a board that pads their budget. What we're asking for tonight is very realistic, the product of a lot of thought and figuring. The rise is mainly due to influences beyond local control."

The budget, which showed increases in most areas, with the largest jumps shown in instruction and fixed charges, was approved unanimously by the electors present.

Salaries for school board members were raised $100 per year. Clerk, treasurer and director will receive $400 per year and members, $375. Textbook rental fees at $7 for senior high students, $6 for junior high school students and $4 for grades 1 through 6 were also approved, as was the auditor's report.

Plans for an access road from the present turn-around at the end of John Street to Railroad Street, which began in 1968 but lost by a narrow margin at the 1969 annual meeting, were reintroduced to the electors. "No one questions the need for that road now," Mrs. Ruys told the assembly. "Because we want to keep the school district out of the road building business, we don't have concrete details to offer as yet," she explained. Three years ago, road construction was estimated at $7,500. Current estimates, according to Huth, are near $11,500, accounting for a 50 per cent increase in culvert costs, 30 per cent increases in grading and gravel and a 100 per cent boost in paving costs. An affirmative motion was made that the board of education proceed with deliberation and negotiations if terms satisfactory to the board can be reached, and that the tax levy be amended, not to exceed $11,500, before Oct. 1 to fund construction.

The welfare board said another client also has been negotiating with Peeters.

The Peeters Group Home will accommodate up to eight boys, but, because of the uncertainty over future operation, the county now has only five boys there, according to Welfare Director James E. Stampp. The Peeters-county contract has expired.

Terms of a move approved Monday include an offer to lease the facility for five years at $675 per month, with an offer to purchase; that the rental include maintenance; and, as of Aug. 1, the payments to Peeters be on a prorated basis determined by the number of boys being lodged there.

The county's offer is good only until Monday. In the meantime, the welfare department will look for alternative group quarters. The Peeters facility is the only boys group home in Outagamie County.

Appreciation awards

Appreciation for exceptional service to Highlands School was shown to two couples during the recent open house, which concluded the summer enrichment program. Thomas O'Hearn, principal, presented a silver platter from the school's PTA to Mrs. William Morris, who has been instrumental in the success of the program, which this year had nearly 600 enrolled. Mr. and Mrs. Morris were co-presidents when it began four years ago. Also honored were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Burghardt, co-treasurers. (Post-Crescent photo) increased physical therapy services by an outside firm at the health center.

Earlier this month, Physical Therapy Center, Inc., proposed a contract that would provide for more hours of service to more patients, at a greater overall cost.

Madden said that his firm, which now provides about six hours of consulting service per week at the center, is barely breaking even and is doing what amounts to a community service.

Trustees delayed action pending a conference with the medical staff. Trustees revealed Monday that the medical staff had reservations about the proposal.

Speener proposed considering a short-term trial contract, possibly to the end of this year, with Madden to see if the plan would work.

However, trustees decided to take the issue back to the medical staff for further consideration. A major drawback, trustees explained, was the county having to purchase a large amount of physical therapy equipment for the expanded program.

The health center will play an important part in the state-mandated alcoholism treatment program after Aug. 1. Police, who have arrested persons for public intoxication, must either take them home or to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

After being examined at the hospital, some intoxicated persons will be kept there for further medical treatment and some will be released to the health center which will provide follow-up services.

Plans were to transport persons to the health center in a new van manned by emergency medical technicians (EMTs), but the county board's finance committee cut funding requests for the vehicle and the manpower.

Yellow Cab Co. of Appleton will provide the transportation at $6 an hour on an around-the-clock basis, Speener said. The cab company will accept full responsibility for the intoxicated passengers while they are being transported, Speener said.

Fox Valley Cab Co. could not provide service after midnight, Speener said.

At the suggestion of trustees, Speener will contact Gold Cross Ambulance Service of Appleton to try for a better transportation rate than the $45 Speener said he was quoted.

Trustees felt that some persons will have to be transported from St. Elizabeth to the health center by ambulance. Gold Cross was the only ambulance service contacted, Speener said, because it was the only one with EMTs.

Most of the other business conducted at the three-hour meeting was routine, although Obry and board members answered a variety of questions on the operation of the district and the proposed budget.

Retzlaff was elected chairman of the meeting in a 288-104 vote over John Dal Santo, Greenville, a supporter of the fired teachers.

Little leaguers go all out

When it comes to determination, Little League baseball players have plenty of it, as was evident in the Appleton Little League playoff competition at Lion's Park Monday evening. In the top series of pictures, Jim Meredith of J.D.'s Drive-in managed to slide safely into home as pitcher Glenn Dailman of I. Bahcall tried to make the tag but lost the ball. The other picture shows Roger Marquardt of Bahcall's as he safely crossed the plate. The catcher is Bill Marx of the Police Department team. (Post-Crescent Photos by Ralph Acker)

Jackson won't risk All-Star game injury

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "I hope we win," said Oakland slugger Reggie Jackson, "but if we don't, it doesn't mean we're an inferior league. We won the world championship the past two years and that's the important thing."

Jackson, Most Valuable Player in both the American League and the World Series last year, was defending the AL's showing in recent All-Star games. The National League has dominated the rivalry by winning 10 of the last 11 meetings.

Tonight the midsummer showdown will be played for the 45th time. Gaylord Perry of Cleveland starts for the American League and Andy Messersmith of Los Angeles for the National League. A sellout crowd of 50,235 at Three Rivers Stadium at a national television audience—NBC. Game time is 7:30 p.m. CDT.

Jackson, who will be in right field and bat No. 3, emphasized that he'll play to win, but he won't take any chances on hurting an opposition player or himself.

"I'm going to take the extra base when I can," he said, "and I'm going to try for the diving catch."

He added: "I don't want to hurt myself or my club. It's foremost in my mind that I don't get injured because I'm susceptible to injuries. I haven't played a season yet without getting hurt."

Scrappy Pete Rose, who will bat lead-off and probably play left field for the National League, has a different approach.

"I'm going to play as hard as I always play. I don't want to lose," said the Cincinnati Reds star.

Lee MacPhail, the new AL president, doesn't want to lose either and he took steps so that Dick Williams, the AL manager, had a rested pitching staff. American League clubs were directed to set up their rotation so that All-Star pitchers would not hurt last Sunday. Except for relievers, Rollie Fingers and John Hiller, they all sat out Sunday's games.

"We're going to win at all costs," said Williams "we're going to try to keep our best players out there, whether they are starters or reserves."

Messersmith, who has an 11-2 record and 2.11 earned run average this season, criticized MacPhail's move, saying, "It's kind of farcical to put this game ahead of a pennant race. It's like a busman's holiday. I want to win, but I'm not taking it too seriously."

Manager Yogi Berra's National League team will include Atlanta right fielder Hank Aaron, the all-time home run king, in his final All-Star appearance before retirement.

Berra wasn't certain who would follow Messersmith, but Steve Carlton of Philadelphia, Jon Matlack of the New York Mets, Ken Brett of Pittsburgh and Lynn McGlothen of St. Louis are the most likely since Montreal's Steve Rogers and Atlanta's Buzz Capra worked Sunday.

Williams said he probably would follow Perry with either Boston's Luis Tiant or Jim "Catfish" Hunter of Oakland.

Veteran Archie Dadian cards 69, leads state tourney by one stroke

MANITOWOC, Wis. (AP) — Perfectionist Archie Dadian, who had just played 18 remarkable holes, headed for the putting green Monday.

"When you play well, that's when you should practice," Dadian said. "You want to stay in the groove."

The veteran public links star from South Milwaukee played well enough to post a 69, two under par over the soggy 6,581 yard Branch River Country Club layout, for a one stroke lead after one round of the 74th Wisconsin Golf Association amateur tournament.

Bruce Hanson of Racine was runner-up at 70. Frank Tenfel of Waukesha, representing Waterford Rivermoor, was the only other entrant to conquer par, matching it at 71.

"I played well and only missed one or two putts inside six feet," said Dadian, the 1963 champion and 1967 runner-up. "I played well from tee to green."

Dadian, who hit 15 greens in regulation, had a special reason for his post round practice—the shaking memory of what happened to him in last year's tournament at Kenosha Country Club.

In that meet, Dadian took the lead after two rounds and was five strokes ahead after 15 holes of round three. However, he took an eight on the next hole, hit his next two balls into bushes and finished the day two strokes behind. Jeff Radder of Madison went on to win.

"I remember what happened last year, but I try to forget it," Dadian said. "But I just hope I can get in that position again. I'd love to have a five shot lead. The bigger the lead, the better I like it."

Hanson was one under for the front nine and made a charge for the lead with birdies on Nos. 15 and 16. On the 15th, he put his first shot just in front of a water hazard 270 feet from the tee, then hit a 2 iron shot to within six inches of the cup and tapped in for a three.

On the 16th, he hit his second shot to within 20 feet of the hole and sank the putt for another three. However, he lost the lead when he bogeyed his last two holes.

Jay Lohmiller of Hartford, another former champion, was tied with Keith Meyer of Milwaukee at 72. Bracketed at 73 were Dr. Steve Paradise and John Ruffalo of Kenosha; Dennis Froemming, Milwaukee; Jim Kloiber, Oak Park, and Mike Lauer, Clintonville.

Radder turned in a 77. Among other former champions, Steve Caravello of Madison shot a 75 and Dick Sucher of Milwaukee and George Madsen of Racine were at 76.

ML Stars win, 3-2

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — Elmore 'Moe' Hill, veteran Midwest League performer, delivered a bases loaded single in the 13th inning to give the Midwest All-Stars a 3-2 victory over the Iowa Oaks Monday.

Hill, 27, has spent several seasons with the Wisconsin Rapids Twins.

The All-Stars jumped on Oaks starter Jim McAndrews for a pair of runs in the bottom of the first. Alex Tavares, Cedar Rapids, opened the threat with a single and Wisconsin Rapids' Alvis Woods followed with a two-run homer to right.

Iowa chipped a single run off the lead in the fourth as former Appleton Foxes Sam Ewing and Bobby Tucker singled. Leon Brown grounded to short on an apparent double play ball but Doug Clarey's relay to first was bad allowing Ewing to score.

The Oaks tied the game in the sixth as Lamar Johnson, another former Appleton player, jolted a triple to left-center and scored on Ewing's sacrifice fly to right.

All-Star hurlers held the Oaks hitless over the last seven innings.

Ronnie Farkas, Wisconsin Rapids, was hit by a Ken Tatum pitch to open the 13th. Steve Blomberg, an ex-Lawrence University athlete, sacrificed Farkas to second, and reached on an overthrow of first. Tavares then reached on a fielder's choice to load the bases. After Woods popped out, Hill grounded a single between third and short to score the winning run.

Appleton's Kevin Bell was held hitless in three at bats.

Pitching for Iowa was southpaw

Butch Stinson who started the season with Appleton. Stinson walked two and fanned six in five strong innings.

Former Appleton players with Iowa are Dan Rourke, Jerry Hairston, Joe Talley, Johnson, Ewing, Tucker and Stinson.

Yaralian, Spiro will start

Post-Crescent news service

GREEN BAY — Zaven Yaralian, Lennie Crudup, Steve Spiro, Brent Longwell... they will be among the 22 starters for the Green Bay Packers Thursday night.

To say the lineup appears pale in comparison to Bart Starr, Jim Taylor, Willie Davis, Willie Wood and the rest of the 1962 world champion Packers would probably be the understatement of the last 2,000 years.

It would even appear pale when compared to Carlton Massey, Ollie Spencer, J. D. Kimmel, Steve Melling and the remainder of the '58 Packers, who compiled that infamous 1-10-1 record.

Nevertheless, they will be wearing the green and gold and playing in Lambeau Field before a crowd some predict will surpass 50,000. The cast of rookies will represent the Packers in a game against the Chicago Bear yearlings, which will act as a substitute for the annual intra-squad battle.

Head Coach Dan Devine has intimated his rookie crop may not have an abundance of talent. But he has had nothing but good to say about their desire and determination. And after Monday night's practice under the lights at Lambeau Field, he didn't seem to be the least bit fearful that his squad of rookies would embarrass anybody.

"What a coach fears more than anything else is that a team will quit on him—that's a haunting fear," Devine said. "I'm convinced this team won't quit on us and consequently I won't be embarrassed."

"There isn't a John Brockington or Willie Buchanon, let's not kid ourselves," he said, before adding facetiously, "I think everybody would agree John Brockington could start for this team... and Willie Buchanon. But Barry Smith would have to hustle to make it."

If last Saturday's scrimmage was an indication, the Packers will field a much stronger offensive team than defensive unit Thursday.

The tentative starting lineup on offense will have Steve Odom and Ken Payne at wide receiver, Longwell at tight end, Lee Nystrom and Dave Wammstedt at tackle, Bart Purvis and Gary Cox at guard, Mikel Irons at center, Charlie Napper at quarterback and Don Woods and Eric Torkelson at running back.

Wide receiver is probably the deepest and strongest of the units at this point. Devine said after Monday morning's practice, "I'm really enthused about Steve Odom. He's going to add a great deal to our passing game. I believe we probably have three wide receivers who could play in the NFL."

Along with the 5-foot-8, 165-pound Odom, Payne caught 147 passes in three years at Langston College and Bob Wicks, a strong, hard-nosed receiver, spent time with the St. Louis Cardinals. Randy Woodfield, the club's 17th round draft choice, and free agent John Green of Doane College have also pleased John Polonchek, the Pack's receiver coach.

Nystrom is the leader in the offensive line. The Packers were impressed with his ability after picking him up from Pittsburgh toward the end of last season. And Rolie Dotsch, line coach, continues to be satisfied with his development.

Purvis, a seventh round draft pick, according to Dotsch "is doing things extremely well for a rookie." Wannstedt, a 15th round draft pick from Pittsburgh, Dotsch classified as "a pleasant surprise."

Napper, a two-year veteran of the taxi squad, will get a lengthy look at quarterback, assistant Perry Moss said. His relief help will come first.

Sprague out about 3 weeks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ed Sprague, who has developed into the Milwaukee Brewers' most dependable starting pitcher with a 7-2 record and 2.47 earned run average, will be shelved about three weeks with a knee injury, General Manager Jim Wilson said Monday.

Sprague strained ligaments while fielding a ground ball last Friday in a game at Chicago. At first it had been feared surgery would be required, although trainer Curt Rayer later ruled out surgery.

Wilson is here for tonight's All-Star game.

Shero signs Flyer pact

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Coach Fred Shero, agreeing to return to defend the Stanley Cup title, says he will be making as much money as some of his National Hockey League champion Philadelphia Flyers. Shero, 48, saying "I never really wanted to leave Philadelphia," signed a three-year contract with the Flyers Monday, ending speculation he might enter law school or jump to the World Hockey Association.

Contract terms were not disclosed, but it was estimated to be about $80,000 a year.

Mark Steward, Shero's agent, said Shero would have gotten more money from Minnesota of the WHA. The Fighting Saints reportedly offered Shero the jobs of coach, general manager and part owner.

Shero has coached the Flyers for three years, guiding them to a fourth-place finish in the NHL West in his first year, second place in his second year, and the Stanley Cup this year.

from John Cherry of Missouri and then Curtis Krull of Northwestern of Iowa. Both are free agents.

Woods, a sixth round draft pick and quarterback at New Mexico last year, has been impressive throughout the camp at a halfback spot. A gliding type runner, who appears to have a knack for finding an opening, Woods also is a threat on the halfback option.

Torkelson, an 11th round selection from Connecticut, will be the fullback. As a senior in college he rushed for 1,233 yards.

Free agents Gary Scutt and Garyion Dunlap of Eureka are also slated for early duty at running back. Scutt played at Northern Michigan, finishing his career there in 1970, and last year was the Most Valuable Player in a semi-pro loop in New York. Dotsch, who coached him at Northern, once said, "He is a Bobby Kroll on offense."

The defensive starting lineup will probably have Spiro and Carl McElroy at end, Mike Basinger and Andy Neloms at tackle, Monte Doris at middle linebacker, Mark Cooney and Crudup at outside linebacker, Howard Ebow and Yaralian at cornerback, and Bruce Harms and Paul Metallo at safety.

Shark back top rusher

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Tommy Durrance tries harder—or more, at least.

The running back of the Jacksonville Sharks is No. 1 in World Football League rushing yardage, according to statistics released today by the league.

But that's because he has been handed the ball more than anyone else. Durrance has run up 184 yards in two games this season, 14 more than last week's leader, J.J. Jennings of Memphis. But Durrance has had 48 shots with the ball, six more than Jennings.

Florida's Jim Strong is third with 130 yards, followed by Kermit Johnson of Southern California with 117 and Jim Ford of New York with 109. Ford has done the most with the ball, a 5.5-yard average.

Bubba Wyche of Detroit is the passing yardage leader with 447, Norris Weese of the Hawaiians is first in completion percentage, having connected on 29 of 47 attempts in two games for a 61.7 mark, and Virgil Carter of Chicago leads in completions with 33 in 62 attempts.

James Scott of Chicago has caught 14 passes to lead WFL receivers but Hubie Bryant of Detroit, with nine receptions, has made the most of them, gaining 179 yards, a 19.9-yard-per-catch average.

Tony Adams of Southern California, with two touchdowns—both rushing—and one "action point," leads the league in scoring with 15 points.

Five WFL players have made two interceptions, led by Houston's Pat Gibbs, who has run them back for 40 yards.

Alonzo Emery of Southern California is the No. 1 kickoff returner with a 52-yard average. Alvin Wyatt has averaged 19.6 yards to lead punt-returns and Chuck Ramsey, with a 44.7-yard average, is tops among punters.

Gaylord may serve up 'wet one' for old times

By The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The National Weather Service isn't giving any odds on the outcome of tonight's All-Star baseball game, but it is giving a 4-1 chance for favorable weather.

The forecast calls for cloudy and mild weather at game time—7:30 p.m., CDT—with temperatures in the 60s and a 20 per cent chance of precipitation.

If the nationally televised (NBC) contest should be rained out, it would be rescheduled for 1 p.m. Wednesday.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — "I might throw one in on old Hank to make him feel at home," said Gaylord Perry, the American League's starting All-Star pitcher. The suggestion was that Perry, self-described as a reformed spitball pitcher, might toss a wet one to Hank Aaron for old time's sake.

"I didn't say I'd do it," Perry added with a grin. "I said I'm thinking about it."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh last hosted the All-Star Game in 1959, and then Vice President Richard M. Nixon watched from the stands as the National League won 5-4.

He was given a loud ovation before the game at old Forbes Field, and he responded with a broad smile and outflung and upraised arms.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Broadcaster Joe Garagiola on Oakland A's slugger Reggie Jackson: "The thing I like about him is that he doesn't treat baseball like it's High Mass."

Garagiola on his old 1952 Pirate team, which finished with a .273 winning percentage: "We had such men as Forrest Main, Clem Keshorek, the O'Brien twins and a fellow who played fiddle... We lost 112 games on merit that year."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Even the sports writers and radio broadcasters had to pay to see the 1944 All-Star Game in Pittsburgh. Proceeds went to the purchase of baseball equipment for military bases.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—All-Star Lou Brock has 56 stolen bases and he's 22 games ahead of Maury Wills' 1962 pace when he swiped a record 104.

"Lou is the youngest 35-year-old I've ever seen," says Wills, who'll be in the broadcasting booth for the All-Star clash.

Brock's tribute to Wills: "He's the Godfather of the Basepaths."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Brooks Robinson of the American League Baltimore Orioles holds one dubious All-Star record. He's played in 14 losing All-Star games.

Eight teams win in Jenkel test

GREENVILLE — The field has been reduced to eight teams after opening round games in the Greenville Class B Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament, which is being sponsored by the Jenkel Oil Co., Appling, here.

Broeren Oil advanced to the quarter-finals by defeating the White Elephant Bar, 6-5, in eight innings, and Ray-O-Vac, 6-4. Jenkel Oil edged Terry's Bar of Oshkosh, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Ehlike Welding defeated J & R Tire, 5-4, and Ultraclean, Oshkosh, 3-2, in nine innings to advance to further play. Lloyd's of Manawa, trimmed the Kimberly Credit Union, 3-2.

Bodyway TV bested Kurv Inn, 7-1, Glenn's Restaurant topped Oore Ambulance of Oshkosh, 7-1, after Moore had won its first game, 8-1, over Joyce's Bar of Kaukauna.

Kleist's Bar posted wins over the Edge Of Town, 5-3, and Eagles II of Oshkosh, 11-0.

Bob's Small Engine of Little Chute bested Toby's Tap, also of Little Chute, 2-0.

The tournament will conclude this weekend with four quarter-final games Saturday. Jenkel Oil plays Broeren Oil (1:00 p.m.), Lloyd's of Manawa, Ehlike Welding (2:30), Bodyway TV meets Glenn's Restaurant (4:00) and Bob's Small Engine goes against Kleist's Bar (5:30). The semi-finals will be played Sunday at 12:30 p.m. and 2:00, followed by the third place game at 4:00 and the championship contest at 5:30.

Little boy in all of us died with Dizzy

1974, Los Angeles Times

Well to paraphrase Frank Hamagan, we're all 10 years older today. Dizzy Dean is dead. And 1934 is gone forever. Another part of our youth fled. You look in the mirror and the small boy no longer smiles back at you. Just that sad old man. The Gashouse Gang is now a duet.

Dizzy died the other day at the age of 11 or 12. The little boy in all of us died with him.

Dizzy was not your manufactured American eccentric. He was the real article. He came out of a time and a place, the Grapes-of-Wrath America, that today's two-cars-in-the-garage, television-aerial America cannot even conceive of.

The part of the country that spawned Dizzy Dean also gave delivery to Bonnie and Clyde, Baby Face Nelson, the Joads, Jukes, Huey Long, the sharecropping 20s, Dust Bowl 30s, Brother can you spare a dime, Eddie Cantor on Sunday night, Father Caughlin, NRA, breadline America.

I once had an editor who insisted Dizzy Dean was the invention of St. Louis newspaperman named J. Roy Stockton, but not even Ring Lardner could dream up a Dizzy Dean. He had a third-grade education, in his own language, and fortunately for all of us, he never grew up. I don't think anyone ever saw him scowl. I'm positive he died laughing. Or eating. He was always wearing one or the other, sometimes both.

He got in the Hall of Fame because he was Dizzy Dean. He only won 150 games. But he won them in a little over five years. The only right-handed pitcher I have ever seen who was any better was Satchel Paige. It tells you a lot about Dizzy when you know he was one of the few, if not only, white pitchers who cheerfully went on barnstorming tours with Satch.

Dizzy never knew for sure what his right-name was or where or when he was born. He chopped cotton, milked cows, ate sowbely and went barefoot till he was old enough to join the Army. Someone gave him a baseball and it was like giving Caesar a sword or Napoleon a cannon.

He was as vain as a movie star, as amiable as a dolphin. He pitched for $3,000 a year in that Depression time and won 20 games. He used to laugh at the hitters. "Son," he once asked a hitter he'd struck out all day, "what kind of a pitch would you like to miss?"

In the World Series of 1934, when Hank Greenberg, one of the feared sluggers of the American League, came to bat, 10 for 4 against Dizzy in the final game, Dizzy went to the manager, Frankie Frisch. "What kind of a pitch did you say he likes to hit?" "High, inside fastball. Don't throw him none," said Frisch.

Dizzy threw him a high, inside fastball. Greenberg singled to center. Frisch screamed, "What'd you do that for?" "I was beginning to think he couldn't hit nothin'," said Diz serenely.

The late Detroit columnist, Doc Green, tells of the time Dizzy reported that the people who scouted him thought he was left-handed. "That was because they seen me killing squirrels with stones throw'ng left-handed. If I'd of throwed right-handed, I would have squashed them."

Dizzy let death dig in on him, something no other batter could do. His life, like his career, was too short. He was still a 60-year-old barefoot boy when he died. They never got old Diz very far out of the cotton patch.

But, for one brief shining afternoon in 1934, he brought a joy to that dreary time when most we needed it. There was no one quite like him in a boy's heart, save Babe Ruth.

Dizzy Dean. It's impossible to say without a smile. But, then, who wants to try? If I know Diz, he'll be calling God "podner" someplace today. I hope there's a golf course or a card game or a slugger who's a sucker for a low outside fastball for old Diz. He just might have been what baseball's all about.

Nixon said to have been advised to burn tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon rejected suggestions from his staff that he destroy any White House tapes that might prove politically and historically embarrassing, the Cox Newspapers Washington Bureau reported today.

The story quoted a July 25, 1973, memorandum to the President from speechwriter Patrick J. Buchanan who asked, "If there are conversations with confidential aides, such as Charles Colson or (H. R.) Bob Haldeman (exclusive of the so-called Watergate tapes) that are better left confidential forever — what then is the sense of their preservation?"

"Perhaps the President should be provided with a day-by-day log of his tape library, and himself separate the wheat from the chaff — from his own recollection — and have the latter burned."

Buchanan wrote his memo nine days after Alexander P. Butterfield, a former White House aide, had disclosed in testimony before the Senate Watergate committee that presidential conversations routinely were taped.

The story, written by David Kraslow and Eugene V. Risher, quoted a ranking official as saying Nixon rejected the advice on the grounds "it would be wrong — ethically, politically, legally. In fact, the mere act of destroying the tapes might have been considered by many people enough to warrant impeachment."

The source also said, "For one thing, we knew there were a number of people around here who would not have stayed if that had happened. Those tapes could be evidence in an investigation already under way. The President understood that. We all understood that."

Buchanan was quoted as saying in an interview that he was not advocating the destruction of any tapes that might be considered evidence in criminal proceedings.

In his memorandum, Buchanan said the taped conversations "can both confirm the President's place in history, and — in the hands of an unscrupulous or malevolent or hostile critic — besmirch the President's name badly."

He also noted that the claim of executive privilege as the basis for withholding the tapes might be accepted by a few "but to the common man, the only reason for not playing the (John W.) Dean tapes is that they tend to corroborate Dean and contradict us."

Buchanan also advocated mounting an attack on special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox as "a known Nixon hater" in order to constrict the focus of his office "to the assignment they were brought in to perform — investigate Watergate and campaign abuses, prosecute and depart."

If all else failed, Buchanan recommended "the outright firing of Cox, giving as the reason, his issuance of subpoenas against the President of the United States."

Nixon did fire Cox on Oct. 20, 1973, after the special prosecutor refused to halt his efforts to obtain Watergate tapes.

Gurney won't be candidate

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with an influence peddling scheme, said today he has decided not to seek re-election.

"There is no sensible or sound way to conduct a statewide political race and prepare for, and go through a major trial," Gurney said in a written statement telephoned to Miami by his Washington office.

Gurney, 60, was indicted July 10 in Jacksonville by a federal grand jury which accused him of conspiracy, bribery and perjury in an influence peddling case.

The Winter Park Republican, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, has pleaded innocent to the charges.

"I am innocent of any wrongdoing and the first priority is to clear my good name. After that is done I will decide whether or not to resume a career in politics and government," Gurney said in the statement.

He said he wanted to thank the "host of people who have phoned, wired and written in the last few days urging me to campaign for re-election."

Some state GOP leaders had threatened to repudiate Gurney if he did not withdraw from the race.

Public Service Commissioner Paula Hawkins and drugstore magnate Jack Eckerd announced last week that they would seek the GOP nomination for Gurney's seat.

Gurney won election in 1968, becoming Florida's first Republican senator since the post Civil War Reconstruction era.

His only son, Edward John Gurney III, committed suicide at the start of the 1968 Senate race. His wife, Natalie, has been bedridden in a nursing home for several years.

Amtrak riders increase, but so does its deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of persons riding Amtrak passenger trains has increased 30 per cent this past fiscal year, but rising costs forced the government-subsidized corporation even deeper into the red, the Department of Transportation has reported.

Amtrak showed a year-end operating deficit of $198 million — an increase of $56 million over losses in fiscal 1973. Most of that deficit was covered by $155 million in government subsidies, the department said.

U. S. Taiwan defense chief named by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has named Rear Adm. Edwin K. Snyder for promotion to vice admiral and assignment as commander of the U.S. Taiwan Defense Command.

Snyder, 52, a native of Highland Park, Mich., now is the Navy's chief of legislative affairs.

He will replace Vice Adm. Philip A. Beshany, who is retiring.

Camel race on last legs

VIRGINIA CITY, Nev. (AP) — Camel races will be run again this year in this famed silver mining town. But if rowdiness persists, it will be the camels' last dash.

Storey County commissioners voted on Monday to permit races providing tough police supervision is maintained over thousands of spectators expected to stream into town Sept. 7 and 8.

The races run since 1960 are part of the community's life blood. A century ago the camels hauled salt to the booming silver mines. Now their sprints down the narrow main street draw tourists.

But residents complained that lawlessness by students and youthful casino workers had turned the event into a three-day drunk.

Sheriff Bob DeCarlo said that at last year's races 68 arrests were made for drunkenness, fighting, urinating in the street, vandalism and other charges. He said that "if I would have had 100 officers instead of 10 we would have made 680 arrests."

"These people look at this as a Wild West town but it wasn't," DeCarlo said in explaining the rowdiness. "This was a mining town. The aspect of a Wild West place has been blown all out of proportion."

He said that commissioners approved the races for this year but would halt future events unless strict enforcement of local ordinances effectively stops trouble.

Roadblocks will be set up at both ends of town. Visitors will get brochures listing ordinances such as a ban on drinking in the streets. Up to 30 extra lawmen will be hired and private guards will be working at local saloons that line the board sidewalks in this legendary Comstock town.

Revolver discharges, Milwaukee boy dies

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Leslie Singleton, 15, of Milwaukee died Monday night after he was shot when a revolver he and a 17-year-old friend were playing with discharged.

Police said the two boys believed the gun was broken.

Things Wisconsin people maybe didn't know about themselves until now.

"Row, Row, Row Your Boat" is a cute song, but in practice, a lot of hard work. That's why Koshkonong, Wisconsin, is the birthplace of the outboard motor.

Take a drive to the Four Wheel Drive Museum in Clintonville, Wisconsin. It's everything you wanted to know about 4-wheel vehicles, but were afraid to ask.

Wisconsin drinks more brandy than any other state in the Union. And the brandy they drink most often is Coronet VSQ. Because when it comes to smoothness and lightness, there's no room for second best. And Coronet is No. 1.

Bring your camera (and your frog) to the annual Frog Jumping Contest held in Dousman. It's really a prince of a contest.

or possibly next among Britain, Turkey and Greece, which are empowered by a 1960 treaty to guarantee Cyprus as an independent democratic republic.

Casualties apparently were heavy on the island but with the confusion and communications breakdowns there was no way to obtain any exact figures.

The confusion and communications troubles could be a factor in firming up the ceasefire with any rapidity, particularly between the Turkish and Greek communities.

Premier Bulent Ecevit said that if Turkish forces or the Turkish Cypriots were attacked, "we will shoot back."

The U.N. announcement of the takeover of the Nicosia airport said the "airport thus has become a U.N. international protected area. This will at the same time facilitate the arrival of reinforcements."

Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim was empowered by the U.N. Security Council on Monday to bolster the U.N. force on Cyprus. A spokesman said later he wanted to double the present 2,300-man force.

A U.N. spokesman said today the first reinforcements are expected to be British and Finnish.

The United Nations has had a force on the island for 10 years.

In other developments, a U.S. Navy ship brought 384 Americans and 82 Lebanese from Cyprus to Beirut, Lebanon. They were taken off Cyprus by helicopters and flown to the 6th Fleet amphibious ship the Coronado Monday night.

One of the Americans, Yvonne Bachellis of Pacific Palisades, Calif., said the fighting on the island was a terrifying experience for her.

"I have never felt raw fear before this," she said.

Reports that a coup had taken place in Greece itself were denied in Athens by Constantine Rallis, minister of the Greek premier's office. The official Greek radio repeatedly broadcast denials. There was no visible evidence in government offices in Athens of any overturn of the military junta.

Reports that circulated in Athens on Monday said that an army commander in northern Greece had tried to organize a coup to oust the government and its behind-the-scenes strong man, Brig. Gen. Demetrios Ioannides.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's cease-fire negotiator in Athens and Ankara, Undersecretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, said early today on his return to Washington from Greece that he had heard the coup rumors, "but there was no sign to substantiate them."

Gun-wielding grocer wounded

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Judge Godia O'Neal, 79, says the bullet wound in his side doesn't bother him. But he's still hopping mad about losing the latest of six encounters with bandits.

"It hurts a little when I laugh," O'Neal said on Monday. "But doggone it, he should have never got away!"

The elderly grocer was wounded during a $56 robbery at his small store.

On previous occasions, he foiled holdup attempts with his own gunplay. But O'Neal said that on Saturday he was "caught by surprise."

He said that he left the back door open when he took out some garbage and when he returned the bandit was between him and his favorite gun which was hidden in a paper bag.

O'Neal said he tried to grab another pistol he had hidden next to his counter scales, but the holdup man spotted the move and took the weapon.

However, the elderly grocer still wasn't ready to give up.

As the bandit was about to leave, O'Neal grabbed a butcher knife and lunged at him before the gunman fired.

"I felt the sting and I knew I'd been hit," O'Neal said. "But I was still able to chase him out the back door, cutting him as he ran."

The bandit escaped and police say they have no leads.

In December, O'Neal wounded one of three men who tried to rob him and last August he scared off two bandits with his pistol.

O'Neal says he'll be quicker on the draw next time.

new Republican counsel, Sam Garrison, who argued on Monday that impeachment should not hinge merely on whether Nixon committed an impeachable offense but should take account of whether it would be in the national interest to oust him.

"I think that the evidence does not demonstrate complicity in any crime on the part of the President, and if viewed objectively and fairly you can come out in my judgment with only that conclusion," St. Clair said.

St. Clair dismissed as unimportant all Watergate-related allegations against Nixon except the question of hush money payments.

"I doubt if we would be here today if they (all but the hush money question) were the only issues or allegations that were made," he said.

In a defense brief submitted to the Judiciary Committee last week, St. Clair contended an oft-cited Nixon quote from one tape transcript — "for Christ sake, get it" — referred to sending a signal, rather than hush money, to Hunt.

St. Clair was asked exactly what Nixon had in mind.

"I don't really know what he had in mind, to be honest with you," he replied.

Asked if he had asked Nixon what was meant, St. Clair said, "I don't recall that I have, in fact."

Nixon's schedule for today was dominated by a morning meeting with economic advisers and financial and business representatives from the West. The session was related to Nixon's plans to deliver a TV-radio speech on the economy from Los Angeles at 6:30 p.m. CDT Thursday.

Senator wants federal judges to retire at 70

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Dewey F. Bartlett, R-Okla., has proposed that all federal judges be required to retire at the age of 70.

"It just makes no sense to allow persons executing the authority and responsibility of a federal judge to continue their duties at a time when they may not be fully capable either physically or mentally," he said in a Senate speech.

Bartlett proposed a constitutional amendment that would prohibit the appointment to the federal bench of any one aged 70 or over and require the retirement of any judge who has reached the age of 70.

Council authorizes salary hikes for free agents, rookies and veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Football League owners are sweetening the pot for the 114 veterans who have crossed picket lines and reported to training camp.

The NFL Management Council, bargaining agency for the owners in the labor dispute with the NFL Players Association, ordered a salary increase Monday night for all players, including rookies and free agents, who are in training.

Marcol scores points with Devine, crosses Packer picket line

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Chester Marcol, saying he needs more than a few weeks of practice to tune his place-kicking talents for the season, Monday became the third Green Bay Packer veteran to break ranks with the National Football League players' strike.

Marcol took his physical examination and said he would report to practice. Veteran linebackers Jim Carter and Larry Hefner last Thursday joined the nearly 50 rookies and free agents in camp.

Marcol said he probably would have held out another week if talks between NFL owners and representatives of the players' association had not been at an impasse.

"But I know they're so far apart, especially after yesterday, that I don't think they're going to get together for a long time," Marcol said.

"I need more than a couple of weeks to get ready for the season," he said. "I've decided to go in because I feel it would be better for myself because I had a little problem with my leg. Right now it's fine and I'm not really concerned with it."

"I would think it would be very difficult for me to go in before the season and start kicking off and start kicking field goals," he said. "It (the leg) possibly could go out on me again."

Marcol, professing sympathy with many of the veterans' demands, said he was "not going in because Jim Carter and Larry Hefner went in."

"I'm sure there's going to be some hard feelings," he said. "I know I had—and I hope I have—many friends. But if my friendship with them is only because I'm staying with them all the time, then obviously people wouldn't think much of me."

City Legion set for title game

The Appleton American Legion team will entertain Oshkosh tonight at Goodland Field (8:00) for the Southern Division championship.

Appleton, which owns a 22-10 overall record, dropped a doubleheader to Rockford, Ill., 7-0 and 2-1, and a twin-bill to Janesville, 9-8 and 8-3, over the weekend in non-league competition.

In the first game at Rockford, right-hander Mark Nelson tossed a three-hit shutout. Doug Meyer, Paul Hannemann and Andy Kangas singled to account for the Appleton hits. Jack Gurholt, Mike Burke and Phil Plamann shared pitching duties.

Dan Larson homered in the fourth inning to spur Rockford to its win in the nightcap. Doug Meyer doubled home Appleton's marker. Roger Nelson limited Appleton to four hits. Burke, Gurholt and Charlie Wirth accounted for the other safeties.

Janesville scored a run in the tenth inning in a scheduled seven-inning

The action came after negotiations had moved back to point zero with no date set for future bargaining.

Federal Mediator Thomas Searce said Monday the bargaining had collapsed and that he did not intend to call another meeting until there is reason to believe that the talks will result in progress.

In New York, Wellington Mara, chairman of the NFLMC executive committee, announced that it was immediately "authorizing the 26-day to implement the improved pay schedule to all players now in training camp."

This means that each rookie will get $200 a week while in camp, rather than a daily pay of $15.65. And the veterans who defied the union will get an additional 10 per cent of their salary up to $10,000 for the training season.

Earlier in the day, Searce conducted a brief bargaining session to which the players union sent seven representatives but the management sent only attorney Sargent Karch.

"There are no proposals," said Karch as he walked down the hall after remaining in the room only a few minutes. "I'll be back when there are proposals the players association wants to give us."

Then Searce announced that he did not plan to call any more meetings at the present time.

NFLMC representatives said Sunday after 2½ days of negotiations which ended with the owners walking out, that they would not attend any more meetings until the union made new proposals.

At a news conference here Monday afternoon, Bill Curry, union president, and Ed Garvey, the executive director, accused the owners of refusing to negotiate in an attempt to break the union, which they said would not happen.

Among their demands, the players want elimination of the reserve and option clauses.

The owners have said acceptance of the players 63 demands, including the 13 so-called freedom demands, would lead to anarchy. They say they are willing to talk modification but not abolishment of NFL rules and regulations.

Mara, owner of the New York Giants, said earlier it now is likely the NFL will play the exhibition season with rookies, free agents and the veterans who reported to training camp.

Under a ruling by the council, fans who have tickets for the Hall of Fame game in Canton, Ohio, Saturday and for the first week of preseason games Aug. 2-5, will be able to get a refund if they want it and apply for the money 48 hours before the game.

Physical examinations will be given in various Appleton schools for all students who intend to participate in athletics during the coming school year. This will include junior and senior high school boys and girls.

Dr. J. T. Querol, president of the Outagamie County Medical Society, said, "it is hoped that everyone who will be taking part in any sport will take advantage of these free examinations."

The girl's examinations will be conducted from 7 to 8 p.m. at all the sites and the boy's examinations will follow from 8 to 9:30 p.m. at the same schools on the same evenings.

Cooperating in administering the examinations will be the Medical Society doctors, medical assistants, school nurses and members of the coaching staffs.

Examination cards will be available at the schools and must be returned with the parents signature prior to the beginning of practice.

The schedule for examinations at schools is: July 24 at Xavier High School; July 25 at Fox Valley Lutheran; July 31 at Madison Junior High Schools for all junior high students residing in the Appleton East district; Aug. 1 at Appleton East; Aug. 7 at Appleton West, and Aug. 8 at Wilson Junior High School for all junior high students residing in the Appleton West district.

Hudson retains PBA test lead

HOUSTON (AP) — Tommy Hudson of Akron, Ohio, maintained his lead Monday night as the field was reduced to five finalists in the $47,000 Professional Bowlers Association Houston-Sertoma Open.

Hudson, 26, winless on the PBA tour, retained his lead despite a final game 228-212 loss to runner-up Bill Beach, Sharon, Pa.

Hudson and Beach finished Monday's action with identical 17-6-1 records but Hudson had a 26-point lead in actual pinfall over the 42-game route.

Rounding out the cast of finalists were Timmy Harahan, Canoga Park, Calif.; Dale Glenn, Los Angeles and Roy Buckley, Columbus, Ohio.

Smith captures title in Festival of Tennis

CHICAGO (AP) — Stan Smith captured the singles title at the International Festival of Tennis Monday night with a 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 victory over Marty Riessen.

Smith collected $9,000 while Riessen earned $4,600.

With partner Tom Gorman, Riessen split another $2,400 in the doubles finals, as they beat Raul Ramirez and Brian Gottfried 4-6, 6-0, 7-5.

Smith twice took what he called an "educated guess" on where Riessen would put smash shots and both guesses were right. He returned them for winners.

Manning ponders offer made by WFL

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With his National Football League team training in Florida and his agent negotiating with a World football League team in Tennessee, Archie Manning sits at home in New Orleans today pondering his future.

"My mind is like a big turning wheel right now," the New Orleans Saints' quarterback said. "I've got a lot to think about, and a lot of answers to find."

Manning said he could have a decision by Wednesday on an offer by the Southmen, the WFL team in Memphis, Tenn., to leave the Saints of the NFL.

"I'm trying to weigh loyalty to the Saints, to the fans and to the city against financial security for my family. It's a decision I hope the Saints won't make me have to make."

John Bassett, owner of the Southmen, said Monday night he is interested in having Manning join his team, but doesn't want to force a quick decision.

"I would hope that Keating and Manning would not resign anything with New Orleans this week, that they would hold on for a period of time so that we could see how the league and the Southmen develop," Bassett said.

Manning and Ed Keating, his business agent, told Saints' officials Friday of the Southmen's offer.

"Archie couldn't believe it," Keating said of the meeting. "For the first time in his adult life, he was faced with a situation where some people (Saints' officials) had their backs to the wall and said some things they may live to regret."

"How many quarterbacks are there like Archie Manning? They can't afford to really treat him badly if he decides to play out his contract and go to the Southmen."

Manning is entering the fourth season of a five-year, $350,000 contract with the Saints.

Exactly what the Southmen have offered is not known. Some have estimated it to be more than a million dollars for three years, but Bassett discounted that amount.

"I talked with Keating about some figures but I can tell you the figures I read in the New Orleans paper Sunday morning, which were a million dollars signing bonus and $300,000 a year, were completely ridiculous. We would like to have Archie's contract renegotiated," said Frank Crowait, a Mississippi attorney who has represented the former Ole Miss star since he joined pro ranks.

youth on trips all over the world, is sponsored jointly by Educational Expedition International of Belmont, Mass., and the U.S. Office of Education's Gifted and Talented Program. Day doubts liberal views will affect court balance

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Madison Atty. Roland B. Day unabashedly accepts "liberal" as a label for himself, but doubts his appointment to the Wisconsin Supreme Court will significantly shift the panel's philosophical balance.

Day, 55, was appointed to the high court Monday by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey

Appointment brings justices a pay hike

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Appointment of Madison attorney Roland B. Day to the Wisconsin Supreme Court Monday will mean salary increases for the justices, according to the state Bureau of Personnel.

Day and the other five justices will receive annual salaries of $39,725. Current pay for justices is $34,716.

Justice Horace W. Wilkie, slated to replace the retiring E. Harold Hallows as chief justice, will be paid $44,292.

Under state law, justices' salaries increase when a new member joins the court in order to prevent those with less seniority from being paid more than senior members of the court.

to fill the vacancy to be created when Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows retires at the end of this month. Justice Horace W. Wilkie will succeed Hallows as chief justice.

"I don't see any great bloc voting on that court," Day said, when asked if he thinks his appointment is likely to give it a more liberal shade. "That court has been pretty unanimous, from my estimation."

Wilkie and Justice Nathan Heffernan are considered to be more liberal than Hallows and Justice Bruce Beilfuss, while Justices Leo Hanley, Connor Hansen and Robert Hansen are regarded as generally conservative.

Day described himself as "an old La Follette Progressive in college." He said he later supported Democratic Presidents Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy.

The Oshkosh native, whose background includes trial law and stints as assistant district attorney of Dane County and legal counsel to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., considers the highlight of his career the landmark reapportionment case he argued before the State Supreme Court.

In 1963, then Gov. John W. Reynolds named Day a special counsel for the state in the court battle over reapportionment of Wisconsin legislative districts. The State Supreme Court later became the first court in the nation to order reapportionment of legislative districts according to the "one man, one vote" principle.

"I was very proud that the Wisconsin Supreme Court was the first," Day said, noting the court previously had rejected the case two or three times.

Day has represented both business and labor interests. He has been a registered legislative lobbyist for banking and insurance interests and the motion picture industry. He also represented the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in a challenge several years ago by railways of Wisconsin's "full crew" laws.

Day sees nothing in his broad background of legal service as a potential conflict of interest in his duties on the high court.

"A lawyer represents people before courts, administrative agencies and in the Legislature," he said, adding that lobbying for special interests "is just one of the things a lawyer does."

New method to be employed for state farm census

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — The State Board of Agriculture has decided to collect information for its annual farm census by questionnaire and telephone rather than continue receiving information by town assessors.

Because of the recent abolition of Wisconsin's personal property tax, assessors are no longer required to make annual visits to farms for an assessment. In the past, assessors have gathered data including name, address, telephone number, acreage of major crops and livestock totals, and have forwarded this data to the Wisconsin Statistical Reporting Service.

This extra duty was provided at no extra cost to the state but department of agriculture officials estimate that to continue the census through the assessors would cost an estimated $500,000 a year.

The department still wants the data collected since the information is used as the basis for production and marketing plans by agribusiness firms and governmental agencies which make decisions affecting farmers.

The state board approved a plan that would cost the state $70,000 a year with another $50,000 coming out of federal coffers. The plan would be to mail an initial questionnaire, at federal expense, to every farm in Wisconsin.

Due to the confidentiality requirements of federal law, these lists could not be made available to other agencies. A second request would then be sent to nonrespondents. The next step would be a telephone check of those not responding and finally, personal visits would be made to the remaining hold-outs.

Impeachment debate to be televised

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House and its Judiciary Committee have voted to allow broadcasters to switch on equipment that has been gathering dust since the opening minutes of the impeachment inquiry ten weeks ago.

Television and radio broadcasting is scheduled to start Wednesday, the exact time depending on when committee members conclude discussions of the procedures for deciding whether to impeach President Nixon.

A committee spokesman speculated Monday that the actual programming may not start until evening, but cautioned that this was just a guess based on the amount of work remaining.

The ABC, CBS and NBC television networks said they will televise the hearings live in a rotation plan similar to the one they adopted in early June a year ago during the Senate Watergate hearings.

The House and committee stipulated that the broadcasts must not be interrupted by commercials.

Judiciary members voted to allow television lights, which will make possible color telecasts.

Broadcast technicians installed cables and cameras in the committee's Rayburn Office Building hearing room for the beginning of evidentiary hearings on May 9.

Installation was supervised by the American Broadcasting Company, which put the cost at $45,000.

A three-story scaffold, dubbed "the tree house," was erected to hold the cameras shooting through a window behind the committee and toward the audience.

But after several brief statements at the first hearing, the committee excluded the broadcasters.

Several brief sessions have been open to the public, but cameras were barred.

There will be four television cameras in the committee room, two scanning committee members, and two shooting over their shoulders toward the audience.

According to the committee schedule, the first 10 hours of programming will consist of 15-minute statements by each of the 38 committee members.

The next 20 hours will be spent on amending and voting the proposed impeachment articles. As it is now, the committee is expected to complete action on recommendations early next week, possibly Tuesday.

The House voted 346-40 to allow broadcasting of committee meetings. The measure was supported by 196 Democrats and 150 Republicans while 17 Democrats and 23 Republicans opposed it.

A few hours later the committee voted 31 to 7 to approve a resolution admitting the broadcast media to the debates. Seventeen Democrats and 14 Republicans were in favor of permitting broadcasting. Three Democrats and four Republicans were against it.

ABC will televise Wednesday's impeachment debate live, CBS will cover

it Thursday and NBC Friday. Any network can air all or part of the debate live on the days it doesn't have the primary responsibility for live coverage.

NBC said it has no plans for live TV coverage of the start of the public debate Wednesday, while CBS said it still is considering whether it'll interrupt scheduled programming then.

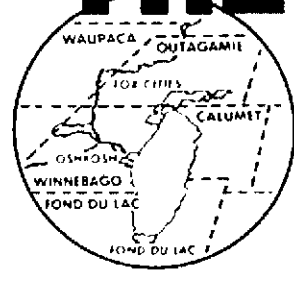

The public Broadcasting Service said it won't air the debates live but will videotape them for evening broadcasts.

The National Public Radio System said it'll carry the debate live from start to finish. CBS said its radio network also will carry the debate live, but will break away for its regular six-minute newscasts every hour.

NBC Radio and ABC Radio said they will air the debate live only when developments warrant.

The Mutual Broadcasting System said it planned to carry highlights of each day's debate in special evening programs.

Old regime figure takes over Cyprus presidency

Associated Press

Greek Cypriot who took over the presidency from the ousted Nicos Makarios resigned today. A prominent figure in the old regime was named to replace him, the radio said. The move was seen as an attempt to reach a peace accord with Turkey.

British reported a new outbreak of fighting on Turkey's invasion beach in northern Cyprus near Kyrenia. A cease-fire agreement is being sought on all sides.

Before these developments, Nicos Makarios, renewed an old Turkish demand for partition of the Mediterranean island between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

Named to take over the Cypriot presidency was Glafcos Clerides, who was speaker of the House of Representatives before Makarios was overthrown July 15 in a coup by the national guard under the leadership of regular Greek army officers.

The Cyprus radio broadcast said Clerides already had been sworn into office.

Clerides, a lawyer, headed inter-communal talks with the Turks under Makarios.

Nikos Sampson, who took over from Makarios after the national guard seized power and precipitated Turkey's invasion last Saturday, said in an address over the Cyprus radio that Clerides, because of his experience, is better equipped to lead the nation.

Sampson added that he was stepping down with a clear conscience. He maintained that his actions since the coup had been motivated by a desire to avoid civil war between the Turkish and Greek communities which share the island 45 miles from Turkey in the Mediterranean.

The fighting report came from the British Defense Ministry which said in London that the battle action was taking place as a Royal Navy task force was evacuating stranded Britons and other foreigners from the northern coast. The ministry said the evacuation of about 2,500 foreigners was continuing without too much difficulty because the fighting was about six miles from the evacuation point.

The Defense Ministry said it had no details of the battle action.

The United Nations in New York said troops of its peace force on Cyprus took over the airport at Nicosia, the Cypriot capital, because of new fighting there. A U.N. headquarters spokesman said no details of the Nicosia fighting were available to him but that he described it as "a new and serious breach of the ceasefire."

The ceasefire had been called for 10 a. m., EDT, Monday but fighting continued for several hours after that deadline, then about six hours later, the U.N. command on Cyprus reported all quiet on the island and that the cease-fire appeared to be holding.

Earlier today, Associated Press correspondent Frank N. Hawkins Jr. reported from Nicosia that sporadic fighting broke out along the so-called Green Line separating the Greek and Turkish communities but that in general the cease-fire had been honored by both sides.

The dispatch was filed before the British and U.N. reports of new action.

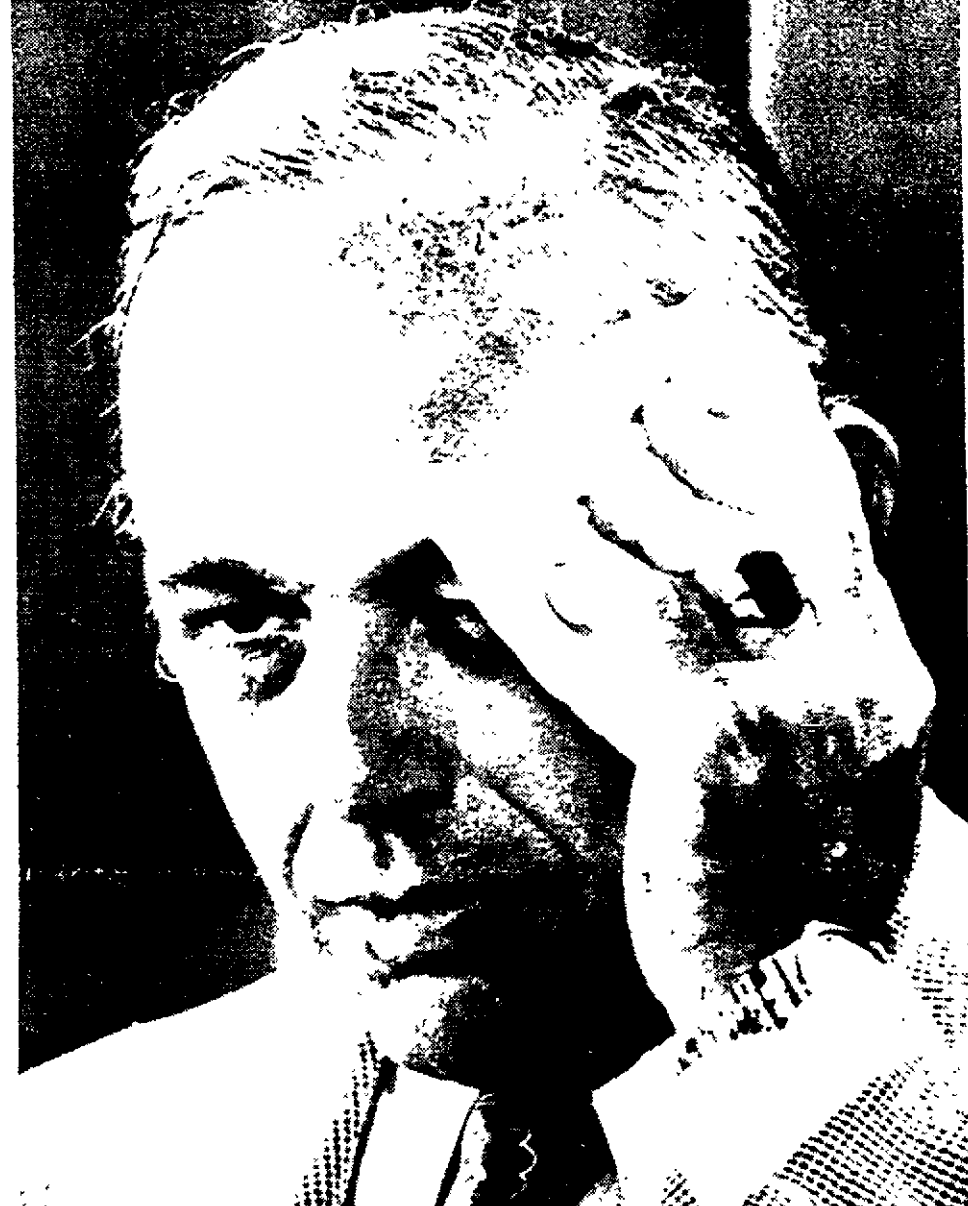

U.S. officials have said they expect fighting to continue between the Greek and Turkish communities for at least several more days.

The Greeks outnumber the Turks on the island by about 4 to 1.

The call for partition by Deputy Prime Minister Erbakan in Ankara was a restatement of a long-standing Turkish demand to give the eastern end of the island to Turkey and the western part to Greece.

The national guard leadership which overthrew Makarios demanded complete union with Greece — or Enosis — which the archbishop opposed.

However, Erbakan did not make clear in his statement to newsmen whether he was speaking for the entire Turkish government or whether partition would be a major demand of Turkey at a meeting in Geneva this week

U.S. evacuees and in Lebanon

UT, Lebanon (AP) — A U.S. ship landed 384 Americans and 82 Lebanese from Cyprus in Beirut today. The evacuees were among 4,000 former British forces conveyed from Cyprus to a British base on the south of the embattled island Sunday, when the Turkish invasion trapped the Cypriot capital.

Navy helicopters ferried the 466 Americans and Lebanese to the amphibious ship Coronado Monday night in a trip to the Lebanese capital.

American official said the Coronado's first Navy ship to dock in Lebanon since the Lebanese government's waters to the U.S. Navy after the Arab-Israeli war.

Sailors helped the evacuees disembark at a wharf in Beirut's busy port, carrying babies down the stairs, helping elderly women and unbaggage with the ship's winches.

A dozen Lebanese army troops with submachine guns stood guard over the operation.

Refugees were taken to the Hotel Hilton in downtown Beirut. Mrs. Bachelis of Pacific Palisades, Calif., said it had been a "terrifying" experience.

"I have never felt raw fear before this," said the tall blonde.

Mrs. Bachelis was one of more than 100 Americans who took refuge in the Hilton Hotel in Nicosia. They slept on the floor of a banquet room in their clothes.

"I didn't know the name of the man sleeping beside me or the little kid on the other side who had her toe in my ear," the woman said.

The most frightening part of the experience "was when Greek Cypriot soldiers began running through the crowded basement and lower floor of the hotel with their guns loaded. People were falling over each other screaming."

Mrs. Bachelis praised the hotel staff who she said remained on duty 24 hours a day serving sandwiches and drinks.

The sight of the American helicopters arriving at the British base "brought tears to our eyes," she reported, and aboard the Coronado the crew gave up their bunks to the refugees and served them ice cream all night.

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon's Watergate lawyer has refused repeatedly to tell newsmen whether Nixon will abide by the Supreme Court's decision in the latest Watergate tapes case.

James D. St. Clair, appearing at a nationally televised news conference after conferring with Nixon for about two hours on Monday at San Clemente, fended off some 10 questions from reporters that focused on the court ruling expected this week.

In all the questioning, at White House press headquarters here, St. Clair provided a flat answer only when asked if Nixon could plead the Fifth Amendment and withhold tapes if the court directs him to surrender them to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

"I don't know whether it would be legally possible or not, but I can assure you he will not plead the Fifth Amendment," the Boston attorney responded.

Asked whether Nixon already had a contingency plan to deal with an adverse ruling, St. Clair said, "No, and I don't see how he can until he gets the decision, reads the opinion and consults with counsel."

Vice President Gerald R. Ford said on July 13, after conferring with Nixon at San Clemente, that he assumed any citizen would abide by a decision of the Supreme Court. However, St. Clair and other Nixon aides have ducked the question consistently. Said St. Clair: "I must insist I feel to answer the questions would inject my view as to what the decision ought to be and, therefore, I have consistently and will continue to consistently continue to not answer."

He also argued "it is highly improper to discuss a case that is pending before a court."

Jaworski seeks 64 additional tapes of presidential conversations which he says are needed for the trial of seven former Nixon aides and campaign officials scheduled to go on trial Sept. 9 on Watergate cover-up charges.

The Supreme Court case also embraces the question of whether a federal grand jury that returned the indictments was within its rights in voting to name Nixon an indicted co-conspirator.

St. Clair, dealing with related questions, also told his newsmen:

—No tapes have been burned or destroyed but some might not have existed in the first place, simply because conversations were not recorded.

—He believes Congress and the American people ultimately will reach conclusions about Nixon's guilt or innocence on the basis of a single issue — whether he authorized the payment of hush money to convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt.

—Special counsel John Doar of the House Judiciary Committee "admittedly has abandoned any views of impartiality and has stated explicitly that he feels the committee must vote to impeach the President. I suggest that is not his function."

—He disagrees with the committee's

Missile goes astray, 6 chopper thought dead

LA, Philippines (AP) — Six Navy men were missing and one was dead today after a heat-seeking missile went astray Monday and destroyed the helicopter in which they were flying 70 miles off the Philippine coast.

A Navy spokesman said both the plane and the SH3 helicopter were from the aircraft carrier Ranger, which was holding a training exercise en route to the Subic Bay Naval Base north of Manila.

Two destroyers, the Jouett and the Bradley, arrived at the crash scene moments after the shooting and reported citing only debris from the helicopter.

The Navy spokesman said the jet was trying to fire the Sidewinder missile at a parachute flare target. He said there was an apparently successful launch but "the missile did not fly the expected track to the intended target ..."

The Navy did not identify the pilot.

Those aboard the helicopter were identified as Lt. Donald Gene Allen of Chickasha, Okla.; Lt. (j.g.) Roger Oster Woodring of Tyrone, Pa.; Danny Earl Porter, an aviation electronics technician 2nd class from Dunnellon, Fla.; Steven Rolla Sanchez, an aviation structural mechanic 3rd class, from Portland Ore.; and two photographers' mates, Airmen Ronald Francis St. John of Palmer, Mass., and John David Graham of Kailua, Hawaii.

The spokesman said he had no information on the distance involved or the mission the men in the helicopter were carrying out.

3rd new premier named in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's military reformers have picked Michael Imru, a 44-year-old aristocrat, to be Emperor Haile Selassie's third prime minister in five months.

The military, which has been the controlling power in this East African kingdom through five months of unrest, fired Prime Minister Endalkachew Makonnen on Monday. The official Ethiopian news agency said the armed forces coordinating committee accused him of siding with former officials the army has arrested for corruption and misuse of power.

Imru, minister of social and economic affairs under Makonnen, is considered more progressive than the ousted premier.

Imru is the son of Prince Imru Haile Selassie, a second cousin of the emperor. But his father is one of the few aristocrats close to the ruler who has not been accused of corruption.

The son was educated at Oxford, was ambassador to Moscow and then headed the Ethiopian mission at the European headquarters of the United Nations in Geneva. His appointment was announced while he was in Switzerland arranging to move his family back to Ethiopia.

The military is holding about 60 former ministers on corruption charges, and there was speculation that Makonnen might now join them.

The official news agency said he had been an obstacle to the smooth transition of the country to parliamentary government and had tried to create dissension among the armed forces.

The report said that the coordinating committee appeared Monday before the emperor — who is 82 today — to get his consent to Imru's appointment. It thanked him for his approval of a constitutional convention to revise the present constitution and give the Ethiopian people a more representative and democratic form of government.

The committee told the ruler its aims were to build on the basis the emperor had laid down for the progress and development of the country, the statement said.

Sources close to the government said on Monday night that Lt. Gen. Aman Andom, the armed forces chief of staff, had been named acting defense minister. Makonnen's defense minister, Lt. Gen. Abiy Abebe, was arrested last week by the armed forces committee.

Nixon economics rate low

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says 83 per cent of the American public surveyed gives the Nixon administration's economic policy an "only fair" or "poor" rating.

Harris added on Monday that the President's efforts to keep the economy healthy drew "good" or "excellent" marks from only 14 per cent of the 1,513 households questioned in a recent nationwide survey.

The negative answers went up from the 78 per cent tallied last October and 79 per cent registered in April.

Those polled declined, by 49 to 29 per cent, to accept the idea that "inflation can be controlled by raising interest rates, thus making it harder for people to buy such things as houses and automobiles."

They also rejected, by 46 to 28 per cent, the view that "a 12 per cent inflation rate is a cheap price to pay to maintain full employment and prosperity."

Speener to study charges doctors don't work enough

Outagamie County Health Center Supt. Eugene K. Speener said Monday that he would investigate charges that some members of his medical staff are not working hard enough.

The allegations were aired by Kel-land Lathrop, a member of the health center board of trustees, during a meeting Monday.

In other business, trustees: — Indicated little desire to enter into a broadened contract with Physical Therapy Center, Inc., of Appleton, as proposed July 8 by John Madden, president of the firm.

— Were told by Speener that it could cost about $20,000 to install a health center sprinkler system. Lack of a sprinkler system has been cited as a deficiency. Speener promised more information on estimates at the next meeting.

— Were told that an Appleton taxi firm has submitted a $6 per hour bid for transporting intoxicated persons after a new alcoholism treatment program begins Aug. 1, at which time public intoxication no longer is a crime in Wisconsin.

— Went into closed door session to discuss the hiring of a full-time psychiatrist and to discuss, with Corp. Counsel William Schuh, the plans for a Wednesday afternoon meeting at which a public hearing date will be set for Speener.

The hearing will be to determine whether trustees have sufficient grounds to fire Speener, against whom several civil charges of misconduct, malfeasance, neglect, inefficiency and dereliction in office were filed by two private investigators last month.

Expected to attend the 2 p.m. meeting in the county board room are trustees, Speener's attorney, Schuh and attorney James Bayorgeon, who was hired by trustees to investigate Speener.

Lathrop said he has received calls from health center employees complaining about some members of the medical staff "wasting too much time" on the job.

The latest complaint, Lathrop explained, came late last week from an employee whose name he did not reveal.

Lathrop echoed the complaints after another trustee, John Wylie, was critical of doctors who, he said, were not submitting fully completed payroll vouchers.

After the meeting, Lathrop told a reporter he was not necessarily referring to staff physicians when he made the "loafing" allegations. But he declined to reveal who his sources named.

Lathrop said Speener, as superintendent, should be held accountable for the actions of the medical staff. Speener said it would be difficult to take action unless he knew the source of the complaints, but he said he would investigate. He had not heard loafing allegations against the medical staff, he remarked.

Trustee President Sylvester Esler was angered by Lathrop's remarks.

Employees who have complaints "should have guts enough to come before the board of trustees," he snapped.

"They will," Lathrop replied, apparently referring to anticipated employee appearances at Speener's hearing.

"If we're going to criticize the medical staff, we might as well close this place up," Esler remarked.

Trustees showed little enthusiasm for increased physical therapy services by an outside firm at the health center.

Earlier this month, Physical Therapy Center, Inc., proposed a contract that would provide for more hours of service to more patients, at a greater over-

Open gravel pits cause concern in Calumet County

CHILTON — Calumet County sheriff's authorities have become concerned with youths playing and having parties near several gravel pits in the county.

The latest incident, according to a complaint on file at the sheriff's department, was at about 12:30 a.m. Thursday when several young persons were having a party in a pit behind a farm on County Trunk B.

When police arrived, several youths were found in the area. One youth had started the endloader in the pit, and it reportedly stalled just about 10 feet before it would have struck a shed where dynamite used at the quarry was being stored.

Sheriff Ted Pagel stated that entrances to the quarries should be chained off. Some quarries have sharp drop-offs, which pose hazards. Owners or lessors of the quarries are liable for any accidents that would occur in the pits, he said.

Administrator, board backed at Hortonville

BY JOHN LEE
Post-Crescent staff writer

HORTONVILLE — District electors Monday night voiced overwhelming support for the way the board of education and administration have handled the teacher strike, shouting down an attempt to fire Supt. of Schools Marvin Obry and awarding raises of up to 67 per cent to board members.

About 500 persons attended the annual district meeting in the junior high gymnasium, while Outagamie County Sheriff Department officers stood by to discourage trouble.

Residents of the district were required to register before entering the gym, listing their names and addresses to prove residency. Nonresidents were seated in separate sections of the gym.

In addition to the salary increases approved for school board members, electors voted to uphold a pay hike for Obry, approved at last month's school board meeting.

A motion passed on a 360-51 vote, calling board members "dedicated people who put a lot of time into their work." The board president will receive $1,000 annually, compared with $605 last year; the clerk will get $1,200, compared with $1,100; the treasurer will get $1,000, compared with $990, and other board members will get $600, compared with $495.

"Surely these old salaries do not reflect in any way the time they have to put in to serve this district," one resident said.

A Greenville resident, who pointed out that Obry received a 9.7 per cent raise last month, said the average state wage increase was 4.7 per cent. He recommended cutting back Obry's salary from $20,150 to $19,277, a motion that was defeated, 310-91.

After board President Roger Weihing said Obry's salary had been low compared with other districts Hortonville's size, one board member supported asked for a "resounding vote of confidence."

Peter Fourness, Greenville, a supporter of the fired teachers, said the 9.7 per cent raise "is a little more than a vote of confidence — we're talking about our tax dollar being spent in excess."

When the district's budget was approved and meeting chairman Gene Retzlaff, Hortonville, an Outagamie County supervisor, asked for any other business, a Town of Hortonville man replied, "I'd like to make a motion to fire Obry and Kohls."

That motion was strongly defeated, again bringing cheers and applause from most of the crowd.

Obry and High School Principal Robert Kohls had been criticized by many of the striking teachers and their supporters during the conflict this year that ended in the system's teachers going on strike and the school board retaliating by firing them.

Most of the 88 striking teachers remained fired and school resumed after replacement teachers were hired. The teachers are continuing to lobby for their cause in the Hortonville area and throughout the state.

In other action Monday at the annual meeting, electors voted to authorize the school board to borrow $90,000 next year to remodel the school bus garage, making the building acceptable for high school industrial arts classes.

The work, which will add about 5,000 square feet of shop and classroom space to the overcrowded facility, will be financed with state trust fund money. The board can get the state loan at 4.5 per cent interest.

Obry said heating, ventilating and electrical changes will have to be added to make the garage acceptable for shop use, but said the state will not require additional sanitary facilities in the garage.

While the district has 20 years to repay the loan, the board plans to retire the debt in two or three years.

Obry explained that capital expenditures are not eligible for state aids, but said the school would receive aids on debt retirement. He estimated that the district will get an additional $20,000 in aids by borrowing the funds.

Most of the other business conducted at the three-hour meeting was routine, although Obry and board members answered a variety of questions on the operation of the district and the proposed budget.

Retzlaff was elected chairman of the meeting in a 288-104 vote over John Dal Santo, Greenville, a supporter of the fired teachers.

In other business, the electors set a 180-day school year and gave the board authority to borrow money on short-term notes. Fees for students will remain the same, and the district will continue to provide free textbooks. Fees will be $15 for high school, $4 for grades 1-8 and $2.50 for kindergarten pupils.

Electors also decided to continue the free milk program, providing students from kindergarten to grade 6 one free carton of milk daily.

Little Wolf school budget okayed

BY CAROL DIEHL
Post-Crescent correspondent

MANAWA — A $1,451,516 budget for the 1974-75 school year was approved Monday by the electors of the Little Wolf School District at the annual meeting. The tax rate of $19.57 per $1,000 of equalized valuation based on last year's figures is 44 cents less than the 1973-74 tax rate of $20.01, but the budget showed an increase of $226,564.

The local tax levy was estimated at $795,098. The 1973-74 levy was $704,788, which was $90,310 less than the amount proposed this year. However, the tax rate will not be set until October when the state is expected to release the new equalized valuation.

Thomas Hoffmann, treasurer of the school board, in his report showed a cash balance of $46,942 and the present outstanding indebtedness of the school district amounts to $1,974,567. The present equalized valuation is $40,628,100.

Prior to the adoption of the school budget, residents of the villages of Symco and Ogdensburg questioned the recreation budget of $5,965, which is used for the 1974 summer program. After a discussion of providing recreational coaches for Little League in the outlying areas for the 1975 summer recreational program, a motion was approved directing the board of education, to invite representatives of the outlying areas to conduct a study and evaluate the summer recreation program with the school board and to work out a summer program that would encompass the entire school district with services paid for by the school district budget.

In his explanation of the 1974-75 school budget, Supt. Dr. Robert G. Ames pointed out the various increases or decreases in each of the expenditure categories. Administration costs show a slight decrease from the 1973-74 actual figures with $24,628 budgeted, which is 1.7 per cent of the budget.

Instructional costs totaled $760,488, which is 52.4 per cent of the budget and an increase of $98,477 over last year's figures. The largest bite was $582,166 for teacher salaries. Additional salaries are paid out for contracted services with Cooperative Educational Services Agency No. 8 and for vocational services. Ames also explained that costs of instructional supplies and materials have risen between 10 and 25 per cent, and although there is an increase in the budget, cost factors on the amount purchased may decrease.

Chapter 89 and the 13 new standards which will affect the state aid paid to school districts also were explained. The local school district has fulfilled part of the requirements of Chapter 89 of the state statutes by employing three learning disability teachers, a full-time speech therapist and guidance services for all three schools in order to comply with the new law. Ames also said that additional teachers will be needed in art and vocal music for the next fiscal year to comply with the new standards.

Transportation showed an increase of $17,245 with the budget total set at $94,775 or 6.5 per cent. Salary increases amounted to $4,555 for the bus drivers, $3,550 for parent contracts in compliance with Chapter 89 and $5,448 more was needed to purchase two new buses over last year's bid, with $21,500 budgeted for that purpose.

Operation of the school plant was up $14,364 with a budget figure of $114,285 or 7.9 per cent. Repairs to the plant was up $32,309 for a cost figure of $44,205. Of this amount, $25,000 was for repair of the roof of the high school, which, although insured, will have to face repairs in the summer of 1975. Health services were down to $300 as the salary of the nurse has been placed in the instructional costs.

Fixed charges took a big leap to $168,108 or 11.6 per cent, which is an increase of $52,447 over last year's expenditures. This amount is based on increased employee retirement and Social Security payments raised by state statutes and in agreement with the master contract with the Manawa Education Association, whereby the school board agreed to pay a portion of the employee share in lieu of large salary increases.

Capital outlay replacement was $9,150 of which $8,000 is for the replacement of present equipment, and is an increase of $4,062. This amount is reimbursable with state aids up to 40 per cent. Capital outlay now is $53,384, which is a $23,154 increase. Instructional equipment is estimated at $21,773 and the Title III basic and special at $17,072, of which 50 per cent will be returned to the school district.

Other expenditures included debt service at $166,978, or 11.5 per cent of the budget, which is a slight decrease; food services dropped to $800; student body activities (athletics) at $7,500; community services at $5,965; materials for resale at $850, and revenue producing property at $100.

Various resolutions were adopted by the voters. School board members' salaries were approved, with all officers receiving $900 per year and the four directors $600. Also approved was reimbursements of $15 plus expenses when

School board re-elects officers at Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — District board of education officers were re-elected at the organizational meeting Monday night after the annual meeting.

They are Donna Williamson, director; Robert Seaman, clerk, and Dr. P. J. Oberhauser, treasurer.

The First National Bank of Clintonville was designated the general account bank for the year. The Clintonville Tribune-Gazette was designated the official district newspaper.

Dates for the regular school board meetings were set for the second and fourth Monday nights of each month.

The board authorized borrowing in an amount not to exceed $500,000, if necessary, to meet operating expenses. This is general procedure.

The regular board meeting followed the organizational meeting.

Joseph Peeters was appointed to serve as the board's representative on the Cooperative Educational Services Agency No. 8 board of control and attend the annual organizational convention Aug. 12. He has been serving as the board's representative.

A letter was read from Mrs. Joyce Wiese, first grade teacher at Rexford, requesting release from her teaching contract. Mrs. Wiese now lives at Waupaca and requested the release to accept a position with the Waupaca school system.

The board was informed that Rose Frank, scheduled to teach first grade at the Bear Creek school, was willing to take over Mrs. Wiese's position.

A motion was approved that the board accept Mrs. Wiese's resignation, providing a suitable replacement can be found for the Bear Creek position.

A letter was received from Wabeno Joint School District releasing Julie Heirman of Escanaba, Mich., from her contract.

The board accepted the recommendation of the administration that she be offered a contract to teach junior high business education, replacing Mrs. Doris Goers, who resigned. She will be hired at the bachelor of science with two years of experience salary level. She is a graduate of Northern Michigan University.

Also accepted was the recommendation of Supt. V. J. Wadleigh that a teaching contract be offered Janet Bauer, Wausau, Ripon College graduate, to teach in the primary grades to replace Mrs. Gertrude Fox, who has retired. Mrs. Fox taught second grade at Longfellow School. She will be hired at the bachelor of arts with no experience salary level.

The board discussed the need for a supervisor for special education as required with the implementation of Chapter 89. The consensus was to explore what the cost would be to contract under CESA No. 8 for someone part time and possibly to have someone already employed in the district work in this program.

The board adjourned to executive session to discuss a personnel situation and disability insurance for administrators.

schedule for 1973 for city police officers, who are members of the CPPA: Donald Kaphingst, $9,725.81; Gene Rohde, $9,712.15; Henry Steenbock, $9,737.20; Jack Betow, $9,479.57; James Wockenfus, $8,313.39 (exception included during his suspension); James Krause, $9,067.56; Richard Halverson, $8,798.39; Ferdinand Mauel, $7,629.99 (Mauel started Feb. 15, 1973).

Eggleston explained what was included in gross pay, listing overtime pay (over 40 hours a week); premium pay of 12 cents per hour for working Saturdays and holidays, differential shift pay of 10 cents an hour for the 4 p.m. to midnight shift and 15 cents an hour for the midnight to 8 a.m. shift.

Eggleston said that the normal guaranteed work week for policemen was 42 ½ hours with the 2 ½ hours paid at the regular rate. The basic monthly salary ranges from $579 at Step A to $668 at the top or Step E. Each step on the salary schedule represents one year of employment.

City Atty. Ralph Lauer is expected to file a response to the proceedings in about two weeks.

The two parties did agree that in regard to the vacation schedule, the contract would be amended to state that after two years of employment, policemen would be eligible for two weeks' paid vacation. Presently, three years employment is needed before two weeks vacation.

Regarding sick leave, the police have been granted 60 days paid sick leave annually and the CPPA requested 90 days. The two groups agreed that the sick leave provision of the contract be modified to permit an accumulation of 90 days and amend another paragraph to read that the police chief must be kept informed of the condition of the policeman on sick leave in absences of more than one day.

Another amendment that abuse of the provision may constitute grounds for deduction of two days of sick leave for each one day of abuse.

Lauer also questioned whether Gene Rohde was still in the unit since his promotion to lieutenant. Herrling replied that there had been no agreement on this subject.

The hearing examiner was selected from a panel of arbitrators provided by the Wisconsin Employment Relations Commission and will be paid, as will be any additional hearing costs, by the city and the policemen's group equally.

After briefs and transcripts are received, the arbitrator said he expects to make his decision within two weeks.

Voters adopt $2.7 million Clintonville school budget

CLINTONVILLE — A 1974-75 school district budget of $2,708,889, requiring a tax rate of $17.14 per $1,000 equalized valuation, was adopted Monday night by school district electors at the annual meeting. The equalized valuation for 1973 as certified by the state Department of Revenue is $88,973,800 for the district.

The board was authorized to levy a tax to raise $1,525,445 from local sources. This is an increase of $278,053 from 1973-74.

The adopted budget shows an increase of $360,698 over current expenditures and an increase in the equalized rate of $1.70 over the $15.43 proposed at the 1973 annual meeting.

V. J. Wadleigh, district administrator, reported that $118,700 of the increase represents salary raises and fringe benefits for teaching and non-teaching personnel. The increase in teachers' salaries is $57,054. Another $21,384 represents increases of 5 to 7 per cent for custodians, clerks, teacher aides and cooks; and $10,476 represents 6 to 8 per cent increases for administrative and supervisory staff personnel.

Salaries and fringe benefits account for 73 per cent of the total costs of operations, an increase of 2 per cent over the current year and approximately 4 per cent total over the 1972-73 operational costs, according to Wadleigh.

In his report Monday night, Wadleigh pointed out that requirements under Wisconsin's Chapter 89 — provisions for special education for those age 3 through 21 — adds $53,000; and an attempt to meet the minimum requirements under Chapter 90 of Wisconsin law adds $25,700.

Salary increase and new legislation constitute $294,908 of the increased costs. The remainder is to cover inflation and necessary expenditures, as determined by the board of education and administration, to maintain present programs and facilities.

Wadleigh explained that last year Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's budget set cost controls on school districts, requiring all districts to cut back programs, planned maintenance and instructional supplies. It also placed the full burden of teachers' retirement and Social Security on the local tax rolls, with minimum aid support for the first year. This year, he noted, the burden is still there, but the support has been reduced, particularly for school districts the size of Clintonville.

Wadleigh continued, "A further complication requires that the governor's budget revision did not substantially increase the guaranteed valuation per student ($72,000 to $75,000) and computes aids on the basis of the same equalized valuation used last year. Last July our budget was built on the basis of 1972 equalized valuations for the district of $80,820,600. Municipalities were required to levy taxes on the basis of 1973 assessed valuations in October. The equalized value for the Clintonville district was and remains $88,973,800.

"The budget and levy are based on the $88 million, which, in reality, suggests that there was no increase in property values in the district over last year. This $8-$10 million loss in tax base growth, a static student enrollment, and inflationary costs in most areas forced the board of education to propose an increased tax rate to maintain present programs and meet minimum requirements set by the governor and legislature.

"A 9 per cent increase in state aids helped offset some costs. General state aids account for 37 per cent of the revenue in the 1974-75 budget — $1,027,228; aids were 35 per cent for the current year. The governor's budget and the new aids formula were designed to assure all school districts of 40 per cent state aid support. Clintonville is shorted."

Prior to the annual meeting, Clerk Robert Seaman read the proposed budget. Fewer than 30 people were present for the hearing and no questions were raised. The hearing was adjourned in less than 10 minutes.

The clerk also read the proposed budget at the annual meeting, after which it was adopted without change. Approximately 60 people attended the annual meeting.

Dr. P. J. Oberhauser, district treasurer, gave an itemized report of receipts and expenditures, showing the balance on hand for the school year ending June 30, 1974 as $327,164.

Reports were given on building and long-range planning by Seaman and on the programs at senior high, junior high and elementary schools by Mrs. Donna Williamson.

Seaman reported that the planning committee met twice last year. At the first meeting, attended by 34 people, the administration discussed current needs for the school system.

The second meeting added more information regarding Chapters 89 and 90 of the state law. Seaman said that in order to comply with the space requirements of these new laws, the committee will have to start working in September when student enrollments are established.

Another area of discussion centered around needed classroom space at the senior high and an indoor pool.

Areas currently being developed are the playground behind the junior high, and tennis courts.

"You probably noticed the windows in the junior high which had to be replaced because the old ones were falling out," he noted. "They not only have proven economical because of less heat loss, but they have made the school look 15 years younger."

Other projects are new storm windows at Embarras, which will be done before school starts; sidewalk resurfacing west of Longfellow School; and the remodeling of the little theater at senior high into two classrooms to help with the space shortage.

Under new business, voters approved having the district subsidize, as before, the difference not paid by the federal government and student to continue the milk program.

A motion was approved authorizing the board to purchase student coverage for 1974-75 under the WIAA benefit plan at an approximate cost of $2,970.

It was voted to fix salaries for each board member at the present rate — $10 per meeting attended, plus additional $100 per year for each of the three officers, and an additional $100 for the chairman of the negotiations committee.

Weyauwega council won't cut taxes on sausage company land

WEYAUWEGA — Bernie Kruse and Al Jonas, who have an option to buy the Wolf River Sausage property, appeared before City Council last week to ask for a reduction in taxes on that property, but were refused.

The council held that it would not be in the best interest of city taxpayers to allow a tax reduction because they then would have to spend more money on a property that is already in debt to the city and county for a total of $70,627.

Taxes against the real estate amount to $54,118 held by the county, and $16,509 held by the city. The county has paid the city all the real estate taxes owed by the firm and any tax reduction would have to be paid to the county by the city.

In other action, Mayor Fred Maass appointed Joseph Denman as alderman of the 3rd Ward to replace Howard Quimby, who recently resigned. Denman will serve until the 1975 spring election.

The new appointment necessitated a change in some council committees. New assignments are: Finance, Dennis Timm, Roy Anderson, and Marvin Timm; public works, Marvin Timm, Malcolm Larson, and Dennis Timm; police and fire, Anderson, Marvin Timm and Denman; relief, Robert Radtke, Anderson and Denman; purchasing, park and recreation, Larson, Dennis Timm and Radtke.

Chief of Police Lawrence Schmies officially notified the council that he would be a candidate for the office of Waupaca County sheriff in the fall election.

Schmies was granted permission to attend the convention of police chiefs Aug. 19-21. The council also allowed the police committee's request for demonstrations of a radar system for the squad car.

The request of Roger Green, recreation director, for an additional staff member was granted. Green explained some of the programs now in operation, including one for senior citizens. He also noted that a record number of 511 swimmers were in the park swimming lake on July 14. The new staff member will work 20 hours a week for four weeks at the rate of $1.75 an hour, and will be responsible for maintenance of the pool and any other duties assigned by Green.

It was also decided at the meeting that the fence at the tennis court on Sumner Street will be replaced. City Clerk Cal Cheek and Ald. Dennis Timm will check prices and have the fence installed as soon as possible.

County Forester Hugh Hayes and Charles Sherburne, city employee, have checked the elm trees in the city and have noted that 20 more trees will have to be removed this fall. Notices will be sent to the owners.

City Atty. David Werth and Cheek are working on a lease or agreement with Taylor Cheese Co. in regard to the use of the city property south of the company and the proposed new road to the disposal plant.

An application by the A&F Waste Disposal Co., Appleton, to pick up garbage in the city was tabled until the next meeting.

Del Glass, engineer, will work on the water sewer loop project at the corner of Parker and Harlan streets. Measurements will be taken and an estimate of costs made before the process of a public hearing can begin. Glass is also working on the Mary Street project and will have some figures ready within the next two weeks.

All the hydrants in the city have been painted. Work to be completed in the near future includes painting of the streets, cleaning sewer mains, Main Street light changing project and painting of the water tower.

Waupaca on top in BABA south-central

The race for play-off spots in the south-central division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association tightened after Sunday action as Waupaca handed New London its fifth loss of the season by downing it 10-4. Scandinavia edged Symco, 10-8; Weyauwega beat Manawa, 10-4; and Buena Vista defeated Lanark, 6-2.

Waupaca upped its lead to three full games as it pounded out 16 hits. The game was close until the seventh inning when the winners scored seven runs. John Holly was the winning pitcher as he fanned 16, allowing six hits. Doug Peterson smacked a pair of homers for Waupaca while Greg Baehman had three hits for New London, including a double. Terry Wing was the losing pitcher.

Both Symco and Scandinavia collected 13 hits but the losers left 12 men stranded on base. Bob Moe was the winning pitcher and Larry Lucht, first of three pitche Symco, was the loser. Paul Nelson and Mark Helgeson had three hits each for Scandinavia while Paul Nelson had a pair of homers. Jim Hass and Randy Brown had three hits each for the losers, including a homer by Hass. Symco had the bases loaded in the ninth but failed to score.

Weyauwega moved into second place a half game over Symco by beating Manawa. Gerry Nolan was the winning pitcher and Dave Squires the loser.

Weyauwega collected 13 hits led by Greg Hildebrand with three, including a pair of doubles. Doug Gehrke had a pair of doubles, Greg Oehlke had two hits and Cordell Ernst and Bill Rupno homered.

Manawa had 12 hits led by Jerry Hackbarth with a double and a homer. Squires with two hits, including a double, and Jim Hass and Jim Sexton had two hits each.

Mike Galien hit a grand slam homer for Buena Vista in the first inning and the team never was threatened. Bob Barden was the winning pitcher and Tim Domashek the loser.

Games this weekend will have Manawa (2-7) at Buena Vista (4-6). Weyauwega (6-4) at Waupaca (9-1). Scandinavia (6-5) at New London (5-5) and Lanark (3-8) at Symco (5-4).

Big inning gives Hatley 11th victory

A 10-run seventh inning outburst broke a close game wide open and gave Hatley its 11th victory in 12 starts Sunday, 12-4, over Mattoon in the northern division of the Badger Amateur Baseball Association.

In other games, Wittenberg topped Aniwa, 11-5; Almon battered Elderon, 16-5, and Eland edged Birnamwood, 5-4.

The hitting of brothers Steve and Stan Schulz aided winning pitcher Elmer Allen of Hatley. Steve had three hits and Stan homered. Rich Schoeneck was tagged with the loss.

Don Aanonsen had three hits for Wittenberg, including a pair of homers, while Tony Schlienz homered for Aniwa. Jim Krumrie was the winner and Dave Resch the loser.

Rod Zienert pitched and batted Almon to its victory, collecting four of his team's 13 hits. Al Grulkowski was the loser.

Balanced hitting for Eland was a boost for Junior Buss, the winning pitcher. John Pieper was the loser in the close contest. Larry Resch had three of Birnamwood's seven hits.

Clintonville students traveling to Ontario for Shakespeare festival

CLINTONVILLE — Seven students and three faculty members of the senior high school left today for Stratford, Ont., Canada, to attend a Shakespeare play festival. They will return Friday.

The $1,000 cost of the trip is being funded 80 per cent by Project BRIGHT (Building Resources to Instruct Gifted and Highly Talented) and 20 per cent by the district.

The group will see Moliere's "Imaginary Invalid," and Shakespeare's "Love's Labours Lost" and "Pericles."

Students on the trip are Bob Bennett, Ann Nolan, Nancy Williamson, Katie McMahon, Bill Newton, Jeff Steward and Karen Krueger. Faculty members are Dennis Bessette, Craig Akey and Joan Paulson.

New London merits safety record award

NEW LONDON — New London is scheduled to receive a 20-year accident-free award from the American Automobile Association for one of the best records in the state.

Mayor Herman Gagnow and a police department representative will accept the award for the city at a luncheon on Friday in Madison.

In a letter to Gagnow, Francis Eckerman, the AAA safety director, said that Gov. Patrick J. Lucey will give the awards to 17 state communities that have not recorded pedestrian fatalities in recent years.

Town appeals court ruling on annexation by Appleton

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN
Post-Crescent staff writer

The Town of Center is appealing to Wisconsin Supreme Court a March circuit court ruling that allowed Appleton's annexation of 114.5 acres in the town, including the Mackville sanitary landfill site.

The attorneys for the town began the legal procedure by delivering notices of appeal to the mayor and clerk of the town. With the lengthy procedures, the court decision might not come for several months or a year.

The town's attorneys said the appeal will be based on their contention that the city was seeking an unreasonable annexation of land not adjacent to its boundaries, and that the sole reason for was to frustrate the town's efforts to collect an annual fee.

The town has been seeking to collect $31,100 in fines for violation of its solid waste disposal ordinance. Thomas Zoesch, one of the town's legal counsel, said the town will continue to pursue that next month when the legal timing is appropriate.

Substitute Circuit Judge James Martineau told the town in May that it must file a claim with the city for the money, and that if the city doesn't pay it by Aug. 8, the town can pursue legal action.

Circuit Judge Gordon Myse ruled March 27 that the annexation of the landfill site, about 2 1/2 miles from the city boundary, was proper. He said the landfill operation wasn't in violation of county shoreland zoning laws.

The town attorney had argued that the annexation was illegal as a deliberate attempt to frustrate the fee collection.

All the land in the annexation is owned by the city, including the 40-acre landfill site. The annexation puts the land outside the jurisdiction of the town and its ordinances.

City Atty. David Geenen commented at the March 27 hearing that the Myse ruling strengthened the city's position that the sanitary landfill can continue to be used and doesn't violate county shoreland laws that prohibit landfills in floodplain areas.

"We feel that Judge Myse was in error, and the town board has authorized us to take the appropriate steps" for an appeal, Zoesch said.

He said the town had filed the required $250 appeal bond along with the initial paperwork. More paperwork, including transcripts of the Myse hearing and briefs, also must be submitted, and the court will decide if it wants to hear oral arguments, Zoesch said.

The state Department of Natural Resources had ruled that the city could use the Mackville site until October, 1974, and to go beyond that date the city must prove its site isn't violating the shoreland ordinance.

The city plans to send solid waste to the county shredder plant, but there also will be a need to dump some waste in the Mackville site.

Myse ruled that the site was only 2 1/2 miles from the city so therefore was within the three-mile limit for extra-territorial annexations.

He also found that the court-imposed rule of reason that annexations must conform with did not apply to the annexation because it involves only city-owned property.

Zoesch said the town hasn't been able to negotiate a settlement on the damage money for the failure to abide by the fee ordinance of the town.

a board member must be absent from his regular employment.

Voters also authorized temporary borrowing by the board of education and named the Farmers State Bank of Manawa the legal depository of district funds. Free textbooks and hot lunch and milk programs were approved and the Manawa Advocate was named the official publication. Also authorized were the school census, annual audit, sale of unneeded school property, legal proceedings, accident insurance for pupils and board member liability insurance.

The school calendar of 180 days of actual teaching, two parent-conference days, three-in-service days and two holidays, for a total of 187 days, was approved by the voters.

In-service for new teachers in the district will begin Aug. 21 with all teachers reporting Aug. 22. Students will start Aug. 26 and the last day of school is set for May 30.

Classes will not be held during Thanksgiving recess, Nov. 28 through Dec. 1; Christmas vacation, Dec. 23 through Jan. 5; and spring vacation, March 27-31. No school is scheduled for Memorial Day, May 26.

The school census report showed a decrease of 31 in the under one-year-old to 20-year-old group for a 1974 total of 1,542. The number of children 0-20 years by municipality showed Bear Creek, 17; Union, 246; Helvetia, 44; Ogdensburg, 59; St. Lawrence, 131; Royalton, 159; Mukwa, 15; Lebanon, 96; Manawa, 315; and Little Wolf, 460.

School district members also were informed that of the outstanding indebtedness, $1,035,000 was the capital left to pay on bonds; $437,000 of the capital left to pay on notes; $374,599 the total interest left to pay on bonds; and $127,968 the total interest left to pay on notes.

After the annual meeting, the school board re-elected Carl Preuss president, Thomas Hoffmann treasurer and James Loughrin clerk. Seated at this first organizational meeting was the all cost.

Madden said that his firm, which now provides about six hours of consulting service per week at the center, is barely breaking even and is doing what amounts to a community service.

Trustees delayed action pending a conference with the medical staff. Trustees revealed Monday that the medical staff had reservations about the proposal.

Speener proposed considering a short-term trial contract, possibly to the end of this year, with Madden to see if the plan would work.

However, trustees decided to take the issue back to the medical staff for further consideration. A major drawback, trustees explained, was the county having to purchase a large amount of physical therapy equipment for the expanded program.

The health center will play an important part in the state-mandated alcoholism treatment program after Aug. 1. Police, who have arrested persons for public intoxication, must either take them home or to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

After being examined at the hospital, some intoxicated persons will be kept there for further medical treatment and some will be released to the health center which will provide follow-up services.

Plans were to transport persons to the health center in a new van manned by emergency medical technicians (EMTs), but the county board's finance committee cut funding requests for the vehicle and the manpower.

Yellow Cab Co. of Appleton will provide the transportation at $6 an hour on an around-the-clock basis, Speener said. The cab company will accept full responsibility for the intoxicated passengers while they are being transported, Speener said.

Fox Valley Cab Co. could not provide service after midnight, Speener said.

At the suggestion of trustees, Speener will contact Gold Cross Ambulance Service of Appleton to try for a better transportation rate than the $45 Speener said he was quoted.

Trustees felt that some persons will have to be transported from St. Elizabeth to the health center by ambulance. Gold Cross was the only ambulance service contacted, Speener said, because it was the only one with EMTs.

DNR has application for pond construction

Post-Crescent Madison bureau

MADISON — The state Department of Natural Resources is considering the application of Lowell Baltz of Weyauwega to build a pond adjacent to Walla Walla Creek in the Town of Lind in Waupaca County.

No public hearing will be held on the application unless a written objection is submitted to the department's water management coordinator.

Two floors of vacant house gutted by fire

Fire destroyed the upper two floors of a vacant three-story house at 224 W. Prospect Ave. about 5 a.m. today.

The home had been owned by the late William H. Zuehlke Sr., a founder of Aid Association for Lutherans, who died in 1969.

No injuries were reported from the blaze, which is under investigation by the state fire marshal's office. Demolition work had recently been started on the structure, owned by the city and located in an area designated for use in the proposed Oneida Street bridge construction project.

The fire was detected by a passing police squad car driver, Donald Herman, who noticed what appeared to be a faint glow or the light from a lantern coming from the third floor. He went into the building and found a large box filled with rubbish on fire.

Herman then started out toward his car to call in the fire, but the blaze spread quickly through the third floor just as he was leaving.

When firemen arrived, flames were shooting about 15 feet into the air from the third story windows as the upper story was engulfed by the fire.

They said it took from 30 to 45 minutes to bring the blaze under control. The fire did not spread to any nearby buildings, one of which is a garage located behind the house.

Fire Chief Fred Selig said the possibility of arson has not been ruled out.

Police reportedly have been having recent difficulties with children and transients entering and staying in the wood frame structure. No one was seen in or near the building when Herman discovered the fire, however.

3 state congressmen seek recomputation of milk parity formula

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Wisconsin Republican congressmen recently asked U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz to raise federal milk parity supports.

Reps. Vernon Thomson, William Steiger and Harold F. Gehlrich joined 13 other congressmen in sending a letter to Butz urging the government to recompute the milk parity formula.

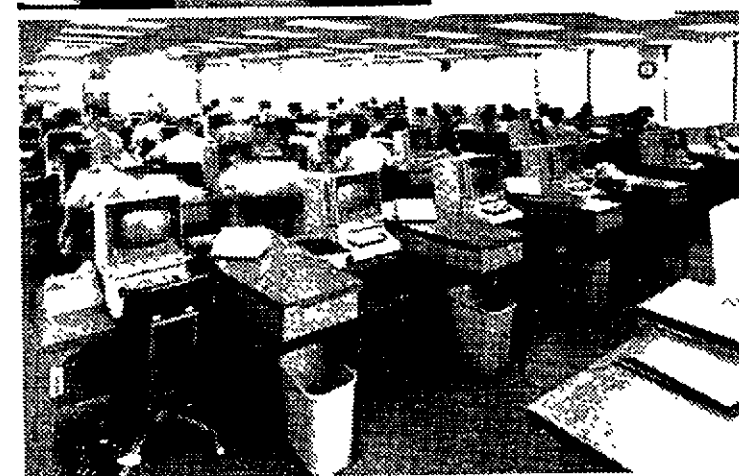

Thomson, who circulated the letter and gathered the signatures, said the government should increase the parity by 50 cents per hundred pounds of milk.

He said the increased federal financial support is needed to offset increased farming costs which threaten to put many milk producers out of business.

Sidelight on detente

The Soviet Chamber of Commerce has invited several American firms to put on a display of modern crime technology at its international exhibition in Moscow next month.

Among the items to be exhibited for possible sale are a voice print identification machine, a lie detector and interrogation device and a yet unmarketed "fraudproof identification system" to monitor fake ID and credit cards.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., often pictured as the last of the cold warriors in this era of detente, has issued a warning that is well worth heeding:

"Are we getting detente when we are going to sell . . . to the Russians police equipment that will help the KGB (the Russian secret police) to hold the dissidents under even tighter control?"

Surely, it is worth considering whether this development is carrying detente too far. The realities of coexisting peacefully with each other in today's volatile world often demand that we seek means of accommodation with unsavory heads of state and systems of governments that may even be diametrically opposed to our system of democratic values. This doesn't mean that U.S. firms, however, should be supplying such governments with the tools that could very well be converted into instruments of oppression.

There is every reason to be cautious about the sale of such apparatus, not only to the Soviet Union but to any other nation that does not have any of the traditional safeguards of a democratic system.

"It would be tragic if oppression in the Soviet Union would result from devices and equipment stamped: 'Made in America,'" said Ohio Congressman Charles Vanik, who is one of 50 Congressmen spearheading a bill to restrict such sales.

Not that it hasn't happened before. The U.S. government has offered police equipment and counter insurgency training to a number of governments in Latin America which have turned around and used them against their own citizens. The same thing has happened in South Vietnam.

The Russians need U.S. crime fighting technology as much as the U.S. needs Soviet expertise in interrupting live news telecasts on matters that may be embarrassing to the government.

Idea of annual state budget quietly dropped

MADISON — One of the more intriguing mysteries in state Capitol politics has been the quiet abandonment of the annual state budget idea ostensibly adopted a few years ago and for many years hailed by politicians with academic pretensions as one of the key elements of state government reform.

Not only did Gov. Patrick Lucey, who had endorsed the idea of a one-year budget to replace the traditional biennial expenditures authorization when he ran for his office, sidetrack the idea when he got into office and examined it more closely but scarcely anyone has appeared to note that he has done so.

Instead, there evolved the "mini-budget," to use the somewhat sophomoric language of the junior bureaucracy, which is a grab bag of concessions, afterthoughts, remedial revisions forced by major pressure groups, and more significantly, the repository for some policy issues that would be exposed to dangerous hearings, publicity and amendments if offered in the regular budget.

The "mini-budget," indeed, has seemed to critics to be the cover for appropriations and policy revisions that should be offered — in the spirit of democratic proceedings — separately and on their merits. But more on that later.

The biennial, or two-year, budget was traditional in Wisconsin. It suited that institutional arrangements, such as the biennial sessions of the legislature. It suited the convenience of the state executive, who for well over a century was limited to a two-year term and generally wanted to reserve a substantial part of the second year for political campaign scheduling.

In the last 20 or 30 years there was increasing criticism from the academicians. A biennial budget could not serve with the precision modern government requires, it was argued. Municipalities and the federal government budgeted for one-year periods, critics continued, although it was never clear why any arbitrary term was superior or inferior.

Circumstances combined to press for change. The rising Democrats paid more heed to the political advisers in academia. The people of the state consented, to the surprise of the professional politicians, to four-year terms for governor and other state elective offices. Legislative deliberations lengthened until there was tacit agreement for annual deliberations of the legislative branch. Thus the annual budget idea won acceptance. Patrick Lucey stood for it in his 1970 campaign.

Notwithstanding, he changed his mind when he reached office. He wrote what was a two-year budget for all practical purposes. As a token, he said he would prepare in the second year a "budget review" measure, which as it turned out consisted mostly of odds and ends. He followed precisely the same format in the second half of his term.

Cautious politicians, those usually described as conservatives, always protested that expenditure growth related to frequency of budgets. They were proved right, of course. Both of Gov. Lucey's "mini-budgets," if that contrived coyness of style can be condoned, substantially increased spending. This year, indeed, it required all of his considerable adroitness to prevent a spree.

Experience has shown, moreover, that the annual budget under the deceptive guise of "review" provides opportunity for a skilled politician in the executive department to get into the law books under the name of budgeting purely policy issues that would be difficult to enact as separate bills, examined in the full light of day by committees and in hearings and under other restrictions.

That aspect of the nominal annual budget, refusing as it does the proud tradition of an open legislative process, may one day bring a legislative revolt. Change and progress are not always the same.

Sydney J. Harris

Harris tries antics with semantics

When I am unduly optimistic it is because "I like to look on the positive side of things;" when you are unduly optimistic it is because "you refuse to face the facts. A stranger who runs afoul of the law is a 'criminal'; an acquaintance who runs afoul of the law is 'in trouble.' I have a 'group of good friends' at the office; you belong to a 'clique.'"

When a man states, with a belligerent show of ignorance, "I don't know art, but I know what I like," it always reminds me of S. J. Perelman's parodied remark to a doctor: "I don't know medicine, but I know what I like."

I change my mind because I am "flexible"; you change yours because you are "wishy-washy."

"Sentimentality" is the name we give to any sentiment we are incapable of feeling intensely.

When my reputation is under attack, I firmly believe that people shouldn't make prejudgments until all the evidence is in; when your reputation is under attack I can't help feeling that "where there's smoke, there's fire." In times of relaxation, I read "light literature"; you read "escape fiction"; he reads "popular trash." Grandmother called it a "sin"; mother called it an "affair"; daughter calls it an "experience."

When you approach me for help, I piously remind you that "God helps those who help themselves"; but when I approach you, I just as piously remind you that "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

The old English "inn" became a "tavern" because that was a more elegant name with a Latin background; then it dropped out of favor, and "saloon" from the French salon became popular; finally, "saloon" acquired a vulgar connotation — and "inn" returned to take its place!

"Eloquence" is usually "hot air" blowing us in the direction we would like to go; what we call "hot air," of course, is eloquence blowing from the opposite direction. When I am urging you to get a move on, I proclaim that "you have to seize time by the forelock"; but when you are urging me to get a move on, I retort that "Rome wasn't built in a day." A party I find boring prompts me to leave early because "I have a hard day at the office coming up"; a party I find stimulating prompts me to linger because "I need to loosen up a little" after the hard day I just had.

Republicans now dining on bullets

"One of these days the Republicans are going to wake up and find they've got a bullet to eat for breakfast." That comment — made months ago by Jack Brooks, a senior Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee — described exactly what happened in the impeachment proceedings last week.

After a strange lull which had lasted for weeks, the Republicans on the committee suddenly found themselves facing up to an agonizing choice. While the outcome was uncertain as the week ended, it seemed quite clear that the President would not be able to line up a solid front of Republicans against impeachment.

The lull which ended last week was largely the work of the chief counsel for the Judiciary Committee, John Doar. For the previous month Mr. Doar had been laying out the evidence.

In keeping with the wishes of committee chairman Peter Rodino, Mr. Doar presented the evidence in a colorless, toneless, odorless fashion. The aim was to baffle administration charges of partisan bias. Mr. Doar did the job so well that most of the committee were stupefied—even anesthetized.

United stand falters

With the Democratic leadership not pressing the impeachment case, the President and his aides had a clear shot at organizing a united Republican stand against impeachment. Several times there seemed to be GOP agreement on such procedural matters as the calling of witnesses and the deplorable nature of leaks to the press.

But in the background, day after day developments kept shaping attitudes. For one thing the President refused to comply with repeated committee subpoenas for tapes of his White House conversations.

For another thing, Mr. Nixon's closest associates went down in guilty verdicts, guilty pleas or evasive testimony. The cumulative effect of these events was to cast severe doubt on Mr. Nixon himself. Robert McClory of Illinois, who in the illness of Edward Hutchinson of Michigan has been the leading Republican on the committee, put it thus: "The way this White House was run was very disturbing."

Efforts by the President's counsel, James St. Clair, to meet these substantive doubts only made matters worse. One of the witnesses summoned by Mr. St. Clair—the President's former chief of staff H. R. Haldeman—did not take the stand because he indicated in advance he would use the Fifth Amendment protection against testimony that might be self-incriminating.

In his final summing up last Friday, moreover, Mr. St. Clair only underlined the President's refusal to comply with committee subpoenas. To the annoyance of both Republicans and Democrats, Mr. St. Clair used material from a portion of the March 22 tape which the President had previously withheld as irrelevant.

Intense lobbying under way

As the closed-door arguments drew to an end with the presentation of a charge by Mr. Doar, intense lobbying got underway for a vote next week. The Republican effort was led by Charles Wiggins, representing Mr. Nixon's old home base of Whittier, Calif. In an obvious move to stampede the Republicans, Mr. Wiggins indicated he thought there would be a unanimous stand against impeachment by the minority on the committee.

That action backfired. Seven or eight Republicans, led by Mr. McClory, made it plain they were undecided and would not cast automatic party-line votes. Mr. McClory himself opened up a rationale for defection. He said the easy thing would be for Republicans to play follow-the-leader. Then he added: "But I think you're going to see some courage."

That is my impression, too. Basically the same forces which have been driving relentlessly toward impeachment for months are now operating on the Judiciary Committee. There has been wrongdoing on a colossal scale. Nobody can deny it. When it comes to a concrete decision on a specific set of charges, it is proving as hard for the Judiciary Committee as it has proved for everybody else from the grand jury through the press and various Senate committees and petit juries to clear the President and his men.

At the moment the biggest question mark is the Supreme Court. A decision early this week might give the Republicans a procedural issue around which they can build a unanimous stand. But failing that, my guess is that the Judiciary Committee, by the end of the week, will cast a solid vote for impeachment with enough Republicans deserting the President on a strong enough charge to carry the case through the House and on to the Senate.

Looking back Sermon not moral at all but virulent

100 YEARS AGO
The Crescent, July 25, 1874.

On Sunday evening last, the Rev. H. G. Tilton delivered what he calls a sermon, in the Methodist Church of this City, upon Law, Temperance and Morality, but which was in reality an omnium gathrum of virulent, mendacious, unprincipled and disjointed thoughts and brutal personal assaults, underlarded with appeals and denunciations, misrepresentations and downright falsehoods. They were just such as a moral and exemplary person would look for only from a bold, bad man and an utterly corrupt heart.

Next week, District Attorney Kennedy, one of the parties personally assailed, will dissect that discourse. Parties desiring extra copies must leave their orders at the publication office by Tuesday morning at the latest.

Brennan promises vigorous defense of federal health, safety rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary Peter J. Brennan says he will not let economics or politics play a role in development of government regulations concerning the health and safety of the nation's workers.

Brennan told the Senate Labor Committee Monday he would resign before letting administration officials influence the shape of the regulations. "I don't want to play politics with peoples' lives," Brennan said.

"I don't know what went on in the past," he said, "but I can assure you it won't happen in the future."

The Senate Watergate Committee released documents last week disclosing that a high Labor Department official suggested two years ago that worker health and safety enforcement could be used as a "selling point" in obtaining corporate contributions to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

One document was a June 1972 memo from then Assistant Secretary of Labor George C. Guenther to Undersecretary Lawrence Silberman concerning the need of the department to be "responsive" to the political demands of Nixon's reelection. The Watergate committee's final report quoted Silberman as rejecting the idea.

Brennan also told the committee he will urge a presidential veto if Congress passes an amendment to exempt employers of 25 or fewer persons from federal enforcement of the Occupational Safety and Health Act.

"This provision would create an unfair and intolerable situation where workers at some establishments are protected, where workers at other establishments, exposed to the same hazards, doing the same kind of work, are not protected, simply because of a numbers game," Brennan said.

Some members of Congress have complained that enforcement of the act results in the shutdown of some businesses and the loss of jobs with no appreciable gains in safety.

Drought endangers Midwest crops

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Midwest farmers are talking "loss" as drought conditions plague the rich farmlands of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Iowa and Nebraska.

Corn, wheat, sorghum, alfalfa, milo and soybeans are all affected.

Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service officials estimate the loss already amounts to some $92 million in the five northwest Missouri counties of Atchison, Nodaway, Holt, Andrew and Buchanan counties, where corn and soybeans are the main crop.

Most of Missouri received surplus rainfall in May and June. However, "when you get so much rain early and then not enough, the crops just don't recover," said Garth Sharp, ASCS agent in Holt County.

In southwest Iowa, it's estimated Pottawatomie County corn growers may have lost more than $21 million. Clifford Johnson, west Pottawatomie County extension director, said about 25 per cent of the 300,000 acres of corn planted has been seared.

In each of the five states, the emphasis is on the need for rain now to avert a season's disaster.

Fred Ostby, assistant director of the National Severe Storm Forecast Center here, said a true drought at this point exists only in the Oklahoma Panhandle.

"But recent signs aren't every encouraging," he said. "We don't see anything to indicate a change."

Reading of 100 degrees or higher have been commonplace in the five-state area for the past two weeks. Omaha recorded temperatures of 107 on Friday and Saturday and 110 on Sunday. Kansas City had five consecutive days last week with temperatures at or above 100, peaking Sunday at 107.

Second trial okayed in Kronholm kidnaping

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Edward Devitt Monday denied motions to dismiss charges against James W. Johnson and Thomas Hodgman, charged with extortion in connection with the kidnaping of Mrs. Eunice Kronholm.

Johnson's attorney, Ronald Meshbesh, argued that because Johnson was acquitted of state kidnaping charges June 21 by an Anoka County jury that he could not be tried again. Meshbesh argued that the "double jeopardy" section of the U.S. Constitution prohibits a defendant from being tried twice for the same crimes.

Meshbesh said the Anoka trial "was an FBI prosecution and not a state prosecution," attempting to illustrate that there was no distinction between a federal trial and the state trial.

However, Asst. U.S. Atty. Thor Anderson argued that Johnson is being charged with extortion and not kidnaping. "The prosecution does not have to prove there was a kidnaping," Anderson said, but that there was an extortion attempt to raise the $200,000 ransom money asked by the alleged kidnapers.

Johnson and Hodgman have been charged with violations of the federal Hobbs Act which applies to robberies and extortions affecting commerce.

The charges stem from the March 15 kidnaping of Mrs. Kronholm who was taken from her Lino Lakes home and released three days later after her husband, South St. Paul bank president Gunnar Kronholm paid a $200,000 ransom. All but $80 of the ransom money was eventually recovered.

Hodgman, 43, South St. Paul, is to be charged with Johnson, 35, Lakeville, on the extortion charge. The government alleges Hodgman drove Johnson and Frederick Hellberg, 31, to near the Kronholm residence before the abduction. Hellberg, Brooklyn Center, has

Auto parts supply firm's new president is wife of General Motors chief SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Dollie Cole, socialite wife of the president of General Motors, has been named to head an auto parts supply firm.

Noel Gage, chairman of Huron Die Casting, Inc., said on Monday that Mrs. Cole had been elected president of the firm. Huron makes injection molded plastic parts for the auto industry and employs about 135 persons.

Gage said the firm has done about half its business with GM for the last 15 years, but Mrs. Cole is not expected to have direct business contact with her husband.

"Mr. Cole is not a stockholder in the Huron company, and in view of the imminence of his retirement from GM, we see no conflict of interest," Ed Cole turns 65 this fall and falls victim to GM's mandatory retirement.

67 injured in dash for exits during fight at harness races

CICERO, Ill. (AP) — At least 67 persons were injured, two seriously, when harness racing fans charged the exits at Sportsman's Park after a fight started in the grandstand Monday night.

Some of the injured told police that the panic started when a man yelled "Someone's got a gun." Police said the man was not identified.

Cicero police Sgt. Albert Sykora said the gun actually was a screwdriver brandished by Algie Berry, 58.

Berry and Billy McClure, 44, both of Chicago, were charged with disorderly conduct. They filed battery charges against each other, Sykora said. He said the fight started when McClure told Berry to get his feet off the back of McClure's chair as they sat in the third floor grandstand.

A spokeswoman at MacNeal Memorial Hospital in Berwyn said 27 persons were treated there and seven were hospitalized, two in serious condition. She said she did not have their names.

At Loretto Hospital in Chicago, where 41 were treated, Emma Wheeler, 64, of Chicago, was in fair condition with a concussion, a spokeswoman said.

The incident in the west Chicago suburb did not disrupt the night's scheduled harness races, a park spokeswoman said. Attendance was about 12,000.

Schell plays a madman

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It takes a second and then a third look to recognize Maximilian Schell in his makeup for "The Man in the Glass Booth," beginning production of the American Film Theater's second season.

The actor's luxuriant hair has been shaved to the scalp, and a full beard converts him into the deranged Jewish millionaire of the drama.

Is Arthur Goldman deranged? Is he Jewish? Or is he, as he sometimes claims, a onetime SS colonel who committed atrocities for Nazi Germany? The answers are found only after Goldman is kidnapped and taken to Israel for a trial in a glass booth, in the manner of Adolf Eichmann.

"This is the most difficult and challenging role I have ever undertaken, more difficult than 'Hamlet,'" said Schell during a rare break in filming.

"The sheer length of the speeches, the complications of thought, the switches in attitude make it an enormous challenge."

"If I play one scene straight, the whole thing is lost. It must be absolutely crazy and theatrical; the man is mad — but mad with a method."

"All this takes tremendous discipline. I never go to parties. I work out everything at home, and if friends come to call on me, I tell them I'm sorry but I can't see them."

For all his labors, Schell is receiving the minimum pay — $25,000—for stars of the American Film Theater, in which plays are done in toto for the screen. This is a fraction of what he was paid for his previous film, "The Odessa File," and it demonstrates why Schell's agent despairs over his client.

Max Schell was established as an international film star with his 1961 Academy Award for "Judgment at Nuremberg."

But instead going for the big dough in commercial movies, the Vienna-born actor insisted on playing in films that he believed had artistic value.

He has also devoted much of his time to the legitimate theater and in recent years has turned film director.

Schell remarked that his financial needs are not pressing. A bachelor, he admitted to only extravagance — paintings.

"A very expensive hobby," he sighed.

Some collectors view paintings as a hedge against inflation because art prices have been skyrocketing.

"Yes, but if you love your paintings, you can never sell them, so what does it matter if they are worth more?" Schell reasoned.

In recent times, Schell has been winning as much acclaim as a film director as he has as an actor.

He happily reported that his first film, "First Love," won 15 awards at festivals and competitions; the second, "The Pedestrian," has captured 18.

"The biggest prize for 'The Pedestrian' came from the German government, which awarded the Golden Band for the first time in 13 years," said Schell. "This is a cash award amounting to $150,000, which will be applied to my next picture."

The system of giving cash awards to film makers is part of the German government's program to revive its moribund movie industry.

Until the past two or three years, German film making was largely limited to sex films.

"It's not possible for us to earn a profit from films in the German market alone," said the director-star, "so there had to be a system of helping to finance films. It's working."

"German film makers are on the rise. The fact is realized at the festivals, although the general public isn't aware of it yet."

"That will happen. German film makers are ready to emerge, just as did the Czechs 10 years ago, the French 15 years ago and the Italians right after the war."

Shirley Maclaine bruises leg in dance accident
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Actress Shirley Maclaine suffered a badly bruised right leg during her act at the MGM Grand Hotel but recovered and performed the second show of the evening.

Miss Maclaine, 36, was injured on Tuesday night during a portion of her act in which she is tossed around in a dance routine and then thrown through a fake brick wall. She was tossed through the wall off-center and hit props supporting the wall, a hotel spokesman said. She returned three hours later, however, and performed a midnight show, a hotel spokesman said.

The stage act, Miss Maclaine's first in this resort city, opened last Wednesday.

Baseball all-stars battle

7-10 — Channel 5 — The top players from the National and American Baseball Leagues come together at Three Rivers Stadium in Pittsburgh, Pa., to compete for the "All-Star Baseball Game" championship. Joe Garagiola, Tony Kubek and Curt Gowdy are on hand for play-by-play analysis.

7:30 - 8:30 — Channels 2-7 — "Hawaii Five-O" was filmed almost entirely aboard a cruise ship from Hawaii to San Francisco. The situation is a good one: the gang is on the ship with the one man who can identify a robber and killer in an off-beat plot. But it falls apart at the end and it is easy to spot the plot "twist." John Byner is the guest, as the ship's comic. (R)

Carroll O'Connor battling contract seeking back pay
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "All in the Family" taped its first show of the fall season without its star, Archie Bunker. Carroll O'Connor, who plays Bunker in the popular series, is in a contract dispute with Tandem Productions, owners of the show, and was not at the taping on Tuesday night.

The CBS show, entitled "Where's Archie?" centered on Jean Stapleton, Rob Reiner and Sally Struthers.

O'Connor filed suit in June against Tandem, asking the Los Angeles Superior Court to declare whether he has a valid contract. He also seeks $64,017 he claims is owed him in back salary.

He contends he does not have a valid contract because of discrepancies between his contract with Tandem and Tandem's contract with CBS.

His contract with Tandem, for instance, permits him to do commercials, but the CBS contract prohibits it. A spokesman for O'Connor said he was told he could do a $500,000 commercial for Carling Breweries, then was told he could not.

Tandem also filed suit against O'Connor and obtained a temporary restraining order which prevents him from working anywhere else.

Art festival planned in Sauk County
BARABOO — The Sauk County Art Association will present its 10th annual Outdoor Art Festival from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily Aug. 3 and 4 at the Court-house Square here.

The show is open for all artists, professional and non-professional, who are 18 years old or older. Artists may exhibit works to sell as individuals in any medium provided all work is of original design and execution. No ceramic work from molds will be accepted and no commercial or club groups allowed.

There is a $6 fee for entering the show. No commission is charged for sales. Information is available from the Sauk County Art Association, Box 222, Baraboo, Wis., 53913.

The problem here is that she is gorgeous, far better looking than the others in the line. It's a slow-moving look at a girl out of time, her 13-year love affair with a boorish comic (Tony Curtis) and her fling with a delivery boy (Michael Brandon). (R)

8:30 - 10 — Channels 2-7 — "Shaft" has lots of action in a show which has Richard Roundtree trying to find who framed a nice cop. He winds up working undercover as a car thief while Rossi (Ed Barth) is fighting for his life after being gunned down. George Maharis, Darren McGavin and Richard Schaal head the guest cast. (R)

9-10 — Channels 9-11 — "Marcus Welby, M.D." has a very good episode with a fine performance from Richard Basehart as an elderly botanist, suffering from some tropical disease. Also, he is trying to hide disappointment because his grandson prefers being a pro basketball player to joining his grandfather for a South American expedition. Some fascinating information here about the uses of modern drugs and their discovery. Murray MacLeod and Phyllis Thaxter are in the cast. (R)

10:30 - 12 — Channels 9-11 — "Wide World: Mystery" welcomes special guest Tim O'Connor to an intriguing murder mystery, "Death Is a Bad Trip." After a fraudulent brokerage house representative is killed in a bookstore explosion, the store clerk finds himself an unwilling participant in a series of harrowing events. Tish Sterling, Peter Coffield and Charles Deirkop complete the cast.

Decreasing population worrying Russians

MOSCOW—A somber new fact of Soviet life, which President Nixon and his aides subtly blended into their private conversations with Soviet leaders, is beginning to worry the Kremlin more than ever before over the continuing economic drain of weapons spending.

The conventional price of skyrocketing costs of arms on the domestic economy—projects delayed, factories not built—is well known, of course. The new fact is the alarming crisis of negative population growth in the Russian heartland of the Soviet Union—European Russia and the once-free Baltic states of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia. That crisis is directly tied to shortfalls in the domestic economy.

Main source of brain power
This part of the Soviet Union, containing nearly half the population, is the main source of skilled manpower, brainpower and energy—a singularly important asset for any nation. The phenomenon of near-zero population growth, apparently first noticed last year, now is moving into the grim region of negative growth.

The danger can be seen from the fact that the single most important target of the new five-year plan, starting in 1976, is to funnel about $50 billion into European Russia to revive and restore the old cultural heartland and the Baltic states.

Although President Nixon failed to make the breakthrough he wanted on control of runaway nuclear arms costs, he and his aides quietly hammered away at this theme: if the arms race isn't stopped, the Kremlin must increase even further the fat slice of the budget pie going to defense (now between 25 and 30 per cent of the gross national product).

That would destroy for a long time to come the Soviet rationale for detente: more consumer goods, decent housing in smaller cities and the countryside, and a workable civilian technology.

Pressure from the Soviet brass for continued high arms spending, particularly from Gen. Vladimir Kulikov, armed forces chief, was intense during the summit. Kulikov and other senior military leaders were far more restrained in dealing with the Americans than party leader Leonid Brezhnev. Indeed, the top men in uniform were on occasion barely civil.

Yet, despite the intense pressure of the Soviet military complex for costly deployment of multiple warheads, the population problem in European Russia is perceived by some experts as intrinsically more important. While population growth among racial minorities in Soviet Central Asia is booming too fast, the seedbed of the best manpower potential is drying up.

The basic reason is the flight to urban centers from small towns and villages, many of which still, half a century after the revolution, have only a single paved street, outdoor plumbing and no conventional appliances. Running away from that bleak and squalid life, with its marginal farming and isolation, families are moving to minuscule apartments in the big cities. Once there, they make a remarkable discovery: children are a liability.

The result: a plummeting birthrate. That explains the new $50 billion program, the emblem of the new five year plan. It calls for fertilizer plants, paved streets and roads, "restoration" of ancient, almost uninhabitable villages to stop the flight to the city and to rehabilitate the most important land in the empire.

This population crisis is only one of hundreds of chronic economic problems here. It explains much of the Soviet drive toward detente and the lust for American technology, credits and trade.

It is not a crisis of ideology or civil rights. The self-exile of Alexander Solzhenitsyn and the tragic sealing-off of physicist Andrei Sakharov (recently on a hunger strike) seem to have helped reduce dissident tensions. Yet, sometime in the future as more Russians get "out" to see the world and make comparisons, the military apparatus may find competition for the state's pie more pressing than their own.

The negative population growth in European Russia is the best example of why this is so. As one Russian states, it is "dangerous" to risk too much in order to continue the "advance" of the arms race. That was Mr. Khrushchev's feeling, too, and some of his aides think it also may be shared by Brezhnev.

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project for boys and girls is a version of golf. Four players make up a foursome, and each player uses a stone the size of a golf ball. Instead of hitting the stone, a player tosses it, trying to land it in a hole.

Each time a player tosses his rock he must add one point to his score, just as each stroke of the club counts as one point in real golf.

The players shoot for Hole No. 1, then Hole No. 2, and so on around the course. The winner is the player who lands his stone in No. 9 with the least number of tosses to travel the entire course.

After landing his rock in a hole, the player lifts it out and, when his next turn arrives, tosses it toward the next hole, always striving to make a "hole in one." SEND FOR THIS CAPPY DICK PARTY BOOKLET
